Note: Not checked by KF interpretation by KS of KF Brazil

We have reached the point that the change in 2024 will come through the Knowledge Seekers (KS) being able to demonstrate the full physical transmutation in Iran in November and later next year in Washington. Mr. Keshe said, that the more KS who can transmute the better, but he is hoping that at least 10 to 20 humans can do it. Maybe this is why in the past few weeks he has intensified and deepened the teachings. What KS have to do, is to be able to transmute their physical body back into a single what he called, Fundamental Plasma (FP). We came from the FP and now we are going back to it, but we will carry with it all that we have gathered as field strength through our life in physicality (P), emotions, knowledge, even our assumptions we have in our life. Everything will be contained as fields inside the FP. And these fields have a separate identity and they have a soul and emotions. It is my understanding that the organs and all the body parts which make up the Soul of the Physicality (STP) will go back to energy information, that then can re-manifest if we transmute somewhere on this planet. But if we go to another planet or dimension (D) then they won't be needed but remain as stored information. I don't think anything of our experience is lost. It can always be recalled through our emotions of wanting to manifest ourselves again in physicality.

It seems that the importance of everything being gathered under as single structure is so that we remain as an 'individual' who is evolving back to his origin, which we understand as the Creator. And recently he hinted that when we feel we have gathered and served our Creator enough, there is yet another new life beyond that. But that is part of the 'never - ending story of Creation,' and the knowledge of that will come later. For now the individual becomes divine, meaning it is connected to the Totality, but at the same time remains an individual. And the only way that could happen is if we can keep all our fields, experiences, feelings, knowledge and everything that makes up who we are together and growing. In other words, we don't get lost in the ocean of the Creators fields, if we don't want to, but remain 'self-conscious.' He said at one time that we do have the option to give all our field strength to another plasma and we would continue as part of that plasma, but not as an individual Soul. But what would that experience be like? Does the cell-soul on my toe know that he is part of my body? These are dimensions we haven't even glimpsed into yet.

The deeper we go into the knowledge of transmutation, the more it appears that every single thing in the Universe (U) has a soul and it has to be respected and considered. He went further to say that everything in the U has "DNA," even a stone, galaxies, and Unicose. I don't believe it is the same as what we think of as DNA or deoxyribonucleic acid, which is a kind of spiraling molecule that contains all the genetic codes that make up our body. Basically it is a 'construction plan' of how we are put together. We think of the physical molecule as the DNA. Whereas in Plasma Science we understand that to be only its physical manifestation. And that its origin is actually in the unseen world of the Soul and plasmatic M fields. To say that a stone has DNA, and if it is parallel to our DNA, then we should be able to find a physical manifestation somewhere. Maybe it is hidden in a dimension of the Silicone molecule that we don't know about. Or it is totally contained in its soul. But we don't even know what that means, 'a stone has a soul.' But we are learning very quickly. The DNA allows us to repeat the same structure over and over again and this must be a fundamental principle of creation of the U. So in our body we continually reproduce cells according to the plan of the DNA. Then the U must also continually replicate plasmas for whatever it needs. At this point it is probably sufficient to know that "DNA" is the way Creation replicates itself and these codes are contained within the M fields along with all the other knowledge it needs for Creation.

What is the purpose of knowing about the DNA or the Soul of objects? He gave the example of the Italian boy trying to move a cup with his thoughts, but only trying to do it with his physicality and his physical understanding of energy. If we understand that even manmade objects have a soul and DNA then by connecting to the soul we can ask it to move and it will move to please us. Just hearing the words is not going to be enough. We have to understand about our emotions and how to connect to other plasmas. First of all we have to sort out this idea of 'pleasing' from our egotistical idea of it. It's not pleasing someone to get our own way, which is the unconscious understanding of the modern Internet culture. In Eastern philosophy they say, God created Creation out of the joy of it. It's just the happiness of existing, or the 'bliss of Being.' But as we are programmed with 'slave mentality' we wouldn't really understand what this means. We don't need a reason to exist, and existing in itself is blissful. In India they call God, "Sat - Chit - Ananda," which means Consciousness - Being - Bliss. You don't have to prove your worth to anyone, just yourself. With this in mind, the soul of a stone would not be programmed with 'human slavery mentality.' In the U it seems that Souls love to give to other Souls, just for the joy of giving. So if we connect to the soul of the stone, through our fields and not through words, and create the emotion of the Joy of Existence, it would move itself just to please us. It's not like paying somebody to do something for us. Out of the love and joy of Existence it would move for us.

I would like to share something interesting. This knowledge about objects having a soul was hidden in the Indian scriptures and only today I realized its meaning. In the Ramayana, the condition for Sita's marriage was that the king who could lift 'Shiva's Bow' and string it would be the chosen one. All the most powerful Kings could not even budge it. What you realize later is that all of them considered the Bow only as a dead physical object. Then Ram came and he folded his hands and bowed with respect to the Bow and he lifted it with ease. He connected to the Soul of the Bow and it responded. However, I don't think the Indians would like to hear this, because they all accept that the Bow was endowed with Shiva's consciousness, which in a way is also true. But a further understanding is that the object itself also has its own consciousness.

We need to do this when we transmute, so that we don't land in the middle of a crowded street in New York naked. Because the 'soul of our clothes' decided not to join us in the transmutation. As Mr. Keshe said, this will sound very strange to us, but it is the reality of how life in the U works. This may be one way, but there also seems to be another way. And that's what he called the "Soul of Emotion," which will automatically make sure we have the appropriate clothes on for the environment we land in. The beautiful thing about Transmutation is that when we connect to our Soul and know it, then it will take care of all these technical things.

The teaching on hormones is not conclusive but today he gave us more information. First of all, when you look up hormones in Wikipedia they say they are molecules that signal or tell a part of the body to do something. Then look carefully at their chemical composition. They are essentially C and H connected together in hexagon and pentagon formations. Where have we seen this before? The skin is made up of hexagons and pentagons and through this crystal structure communicate and interact with the environment, which means not only the Earth's environment but also the Cosmos. This again points to the C isotopes of C12 and C14 and of course H which connects directly to the Creator. We are in the same structure of how the U works.

As science is atheistic and cannot admit that there is a consciousness, or Central Intelligence controlling the body, then they completely ignore this part and discuss the process as mechanical in nature and then go into so much details of this and that, that we get lost in the maze of terminology. Maybe this is what Mr. Keshe was referring to when he said that hormones were a step-down in field strength from the STM. I understand this to mean that hormones are a lower order of plasma that carry out the work of the Soul. In a way, the Soul is the boss and the hormones carry out the tasks, but they are not just ordinary plasma 'chemicals.' And this is why some of the hormones cannot be created in a machine, unless that machine can create the field strength of its emotion. This may indicate that the hormone may have a certain level of consciousness.

He said that hormones as a base, have a H field strength, and through this H they are connected directly to the Soul. Maybe this is how they receive the orders to carry out their tasks of informing the different body parts to do things. The way I think of it is the hormones have to convert the emotions of the Soul into the actions of the body, and this is done through the N in the COHN and the C14. On Earth the N is what he called the 'Universal Energy Bank,' but this really means that through N in the COHN, is how we receive Universal Energies through the C14 which converts to C12 to be used in the physical functions of the body. Basically this is how we get the energy to function as a body and a Soul, but we are not conscious of this process. We believe we are getting everything from the food we eat. So when we transmute to another planet our Soul will have to discover what is the "COHN" and the "N" for that planet, then the C14 will come through that specific element. Other than that he didn't mention anything about the hormones and transmutation.

Earlier he taught us that emotions are created from the interaction of the STM with the STP in the brain. Hormones are part of this process of their creation and cannot be left out. Hormones are not just chemicals as we may think. They are connected with the Soul, but we don't have much more information than that. But he told us that it is because of the hormones that we have to constantly shed our skin. If we didn't shed our skin then the process of receiving Cosmic Fields to run the body would get blocked up and we would die of a lack of energy. In summary, in order for the Soul to tell the organs what to do, it requires some kind of intelligence. Could the hormones also have some level of intelligence to help fulfill its role as a messenger from the Soul to the body parts?

This process of how we take energy from the U is very important and Mr. Keshe keeps coming back to it and going deeper. My understanding is that the C - O - H - N forms a Star Formation with N as the converter and transformer of energies especially through the C12 - C14 process. And the N also has isotopes that connects to Universal Energy through N14 and is the Energy Bank on Earth to the Universe. And this back and forth conversion of the C12 to C14 and back to C12 is what makes the COHN a dynamic field generator and as it is in every cell of the body we must appear as glowing from the dimension of the Soul. He said that throughout the U the energy received from the local environment, in our case the Earth is not enough to power the physical body and feed the Soul. With this knowledge we can visualize every single cell as a field generator through the N and that we are receiving the Love of the Creator, the Cosmic Rays and Fields through this process, and it has the power to feed the Soul without our having to eat food.

In the past he told us about the Earth's M field flow pattern where the M fields go out through the North Pole and the G fields come in through the South Pole. There are gaps in-between the flow line where the fields flow in the opposite direction, but we can't see them. So fields are flowing back into the Earth through the North Pole in the gaps. However, this is just a basic understanding because the fields also flow everywhere else, but for our discussion we only pay attention to this flow. The same occurs in the body where the North Pole I guess would be on top of the head and the South Pole at the feet. The STP would have this major flow, but then the STM would also have a flow where it would receive from the STP at its South Pole and circulate around. This is how the STP feeds the STM. Then he said the fields of the Soul of the Creator (STC) come into the body through the gaps at the "South Pole" end, and this also connects us to the Creator. Thus it gives us a way back to the Creator if we know how to use it. The Souls of Children who are stillborn have matured in the womb and travel directly back to the Creator without having to go through P.

It sounds like the energy from eating and absorbing Cosmic Rays, builds up inside the STP and creates a pressure that radiates out to the physicality and feeds it. Then the P in turn feeds the STM at the top to reach elevation and leave the P at death. However, if we can keep this process of feeding the STM going, by continually keeping the STM hungry then we can keep living in P forever. The STM will keep expanding, but it is never allowed to reach maturity. I wonder if this is part of the process used by what is called Bodhisattvas in Tibetan Buddhism. These beings have vowed to remain connected to help beings suffering in the world, and maybe this is a way their Soul is fed. There is an interesting story of Milarepa, who after dying and in front of a crowd of disciples slowly shrank his body down until it would turn back into light. But his disciples stopped the process when he was at the size of an 8 year old boy and they cremated the body so they could remain connected to him. It's not exactly the same, but in general, they found a way to continue to feed the Soul so it could remain connected to the physical dimension. There is another method of embedding part of the physicality fields which feeds the Soul, into the Soul itself and this would keep it going. But he did not clarify how the Soul will be connected to the physical dimension. Another interesting thing is that he said that, what we create can become greater than us, and then we can find a way to feed from it. And this is what the Creator Himself does with His Creation. But we still need more information to understand it more clearly. And feeding from your own creation is not necessarily a negative thing.

The Transmutation training is coming along in a very good way. KS are able to transmute to their home and move a cup. That's a huge progress. But when they go home in physicality the cup has not moved. And now they have to learn how to connect to the Soul and create the fields of satisfaction within the soul of the cup that it will want to move to please them. If we want to see the change this year we have to get more KS able to transmute. Hopefully, more Souls will come forward that can transmute. The wonderful surprise is that Mr. Keshe is going to transmute with them, 'holding their hand' step by step until they get it. What an honor and a responsibility. And if they all want to transmute to a place together then they need to create the field strength of satisfaction in the Soul. It's not by words or superficial thoughts. The satisfaction in the Soul is most likely related to the sense of Being. And if we contemplate life and realize everything we see out there is coming from inside us, and then if a sense of detachment arises the transmutation will go easier. Detachment is not depriving oneself, that attitude will create a block. He gave a hint that the Creator is detachment. Since He knows all the things come from within Himself including the love, then He shares it equally with all. He belongs to everyone. Mr. Keshe gives us this example in how he teaches the Knowledge of Creation to everyone freely and equally. Detachment is being free within oneself and is a positive quality. If we KS understand this then transmutation will become easier. But still, it is up to us to drink the water of Life and be nourished by the Knowledge of Creation.

Very soon Man will be able to reproduce the energies of the U and the Cosmos within himself. Then he will learn how to use it to transmute;

Thanks for listening.
