

Drawing of Plasma Formation Sphere - Soul of Planet - Inertia - Planet Elements Alive - Connected to Everything Always - Weapons Against Computers AI - Soul Children Introduction to 546 KSW

Note: Not checked by KF interpretation by KS of KF Brazil

As part of our training to move from being dependent on "4 Wheels" to the freedom of living as a sphere Mr. Keshe went into great detail about the internal workings of how a plasma in the Universe (U) is created and maintained. After listening to it many times some things became more clear. Last week we were more focused on how the fields radiate from a plasma and this week it's more about inside and how the internal fields make it rotate.

First of all, for the M fields to interact and become a plasma they have to come from the same field strength. Obviously, they are not going to have to match exactly. I don't remember him ever discussing how M fields are grouped together, or what constitutes the same field strength. I imagine it to be a spectrum of field strengths that have a common denominator to be able to interact with each other. Maybe there are lineages of fields as the Creator divides and spreads out. If we look at what he drew some months ago these field divisions look like a Family Tree. Another example is, what we see in the night sky are the stars and galaxies that match our strength, but that is only a fraction of what is actually there. So to get a plasma started there has to be some kind of common denominator for them to interact. The example he drew in this workshop, which starts at around 15 minutes, is how our planet was created, and it's a plasma, the same as every other plasma.

We can use only as a general understanding the famous KF video of 2 fields coming together to form a plasma. If we pay attention to how Mr. Keshe started drawing, he only drew a single line in a spiral and then other lines looping around each other, but he did say, that the initial fields interact and they create M and G fields, that means they start giving and receiving from each other and they leave a residue. Maybe a better word is, that they start splintering off into more fields and continue to interact with each other, and gradually they form the spherical shape of the plasma. Then they start moving in all directions, while at the same time they all share the attributes of the plasma and contribute to 'the work.' I think of this as the fields are separate but they already have a common goal to be with each other. This is still the beginning stage of the plasma and if it remains at this level its lifetime will be limited. In other words, it hasn't yet reached the level that it can maintain itself as an individual plasma. All the fields of the plasma, even at this stage are connected to where they came from in the U, but we can't see it. This seems to be an important fundamental principle of fields, that even when they interact to become plasmas they still remain connected to where they came from. The fields are never disconnected. And we see this level of plasma as fields coming in and going out, and at the same time connected to where they came from, which is another dimension (D) and place in the U. And it cannot interact with the other fields in the U, only the ones from where the original fields came from. Mr. Keshe said this weeks ago, that we are being fed through the fields of where we came from in the U. Maybe this is what he was referring to.

So all the fields are interacting inside the plasma and going 'every which way,' but there are some main fields that come in on one side and go out the other side, and all the internal movement of fields is causing it to take the shape of a sphere and to rotate. The reality is that fields are going in every direction inside and out. However, the major fields that can be detected by the scientist's instruments are the ones entering the South and exiting the North Poles and they give the illusion of being the only ones. This is the fallacy in the scientists understanding of plasma.

He said the plasma is being fed by the interaction of the fields from its own center. And these fields in the center (partially) decide what fields will be absorbed by the U. I take this to mean that the center of the plasma has its own "seeds" to attract fields from the U. Remember this is what we do when we eat food, we make these plasma seeds to attract Universal Fields to our body.

The center must have created gravity and reached the point of becoming a Soul, because the next part is that the center interacts with the fields of the environment to create the surface of the planet. I am assuming that in this case the environment is its place in the solar system in relation to the Sun. When the surface is created it also creates the Inertia and the emotion which manifests the physicality (P) of the planet. So now we have completed the process of how the planet was created. As it is also a plasma, then this is the basic pattern for how all plasmas are formed. Let's compare it with how we are created and see if it is the same.

The 'Soul of the Planet' is the gravity in the center, and the Soul of the Physicality (STP) of the Planet is the Inertia, which is also the emotion. We should take it step by step and feel what is being taught. The 'Soul of the Planet' interacts with the environment and creates the 'STP of the Planet,' which is also the Inertia and the emotion, and together they manifest the P, or the Planet. It's the same process of how the Man is created. The STM interacts with the environment and creates the emotion, which is the STP of the Man and they create the skin, which is like the surface of the planet. It's all the same process and we are using different words for the same thing. In general, the essence of what is happening is the same, but in specific details of how each part functions there are slight differences. And man uses different words so he can make distinctions. But as most people aren't scientists they don't need those distinctions. For us as Knowledge Seekers (KS) we keep all the details in the background and through our emotion we can feel the process of creation happening and then we get that feeling of understanding something.

The Planet has a Soul and is being fed by the U, and I think mainly from the origin of where its fields came from. So why can't we do that, since we copied everything else the Planet does, why don't we feed ourselves too without killing? It's interesting to note that the Soul of the Planet was created first and then the P. Whereas with us our P was created first through the interaction of our parents physicality and through emotion, the Soul was created. But we are having a very hard time trying to find our Soul.

The material accumulation on the Planet is coming from interaction of the fields of the Soul of the Planet and emotions, and the fields of the environment. The different colors of the layers of the soil comes from the different emotions the Planet has as it travels through the U. The Planet is inside the solar system, which is inside the galaxy, which is inside the U, and as it moves around it has to interact with all the different fields, and this causes it to have different emotions. Remember emotions are M field strengths created from the interaction of the Soul with the STP of the entity. The Planet also has Internal Inertia which creates different materials inside the planet. The Planet now has become a very good model for figuring out what is happening with ourselves as plasmas. Our skin is the same as the surface of the Planet. We shed skin all the time, so we don't see it accumulating like the Earth but it is still the same process of interaction of the fields. When we blush and our skin turns pink it's because the STM through emotion interacts with the STP and the fields of the environment and changes the skin color. In a question that was asked about skin color, Mr. Keshe said that the color we see depends on the point of observation, and if we don't have a matching field strength, then we wouldn't see anything at all. If you ever worked in printing, it is a huge problem to always have to match the exact same color. You can't replicate the exact same fields, but you get close enough that people don't notice the difference. And it's the same with the M fields and why the Earth cannot be replicated.

There is more about the Internal Inertia of the Planet. As the Planet accumulates layers of matter, it has the effect of changing the M fields of the Inertia on the surface, which at the same time changes the Internal Inertia. Remember that the Inertia are the fields that decide what can manifest as physicality on the Planet. It's also the emotion of the Planet and its desire to express life. This would imply that the elements we find on the Planet are alive, and are the expression of the Planet's emotion. This is a lot to comprehend and accept. So all the matter state on this planet really belongs to the Planet. When we dig up the metals from the Earth, we think now this belongs to me. But we are actually digging into another being's skin and disregarding its life and emotion. And from the Universal point of view, we cannot take the elements away from this planet, because the field strength will change and turn into something else according to the strength of the new environment. Again, it's all related to working with the fields.

So the different deposits of materials inside the planet change when it changes its emotion. This is how it is that they find gold fields in places where there was no gold before. The emotion and thus the field strength in that area changed. This happens in our Gans Box when the field strength changes and it causes the color to change and it becomes an isotope of the material inside. The Gans can also change back to its original color. This is what it means that we are M fields in transition. The fields are changing all the time due to the infinite number of interactions that are going on constantly. This is what happens when one day we don't have a cancer, and our emotion changes and the next day we have one. And if we change our emotion again, the cancer can change back to the normal cells. It's all done by the interaction of the fields.

For us to survive everlasting life in the U without killing means we have to learn how to absorb the fields of the U. He said, that each M field of a specific strength is traveling across the U at a constant speed of itself in relation to the environment it is traveling through. We can access these fields through our need and the strength of the emotion, and that operates in the space gap between us and the M field we need. And the whole relationship between us and the M fields we want to take from, has to be one of freedom. This is where the emotion of the STM will be a true and honest emotion and not the kind we are used to in P where we hide our true feeling to get what we want from another. And we won't go around collecting M fields and storing them for when we think we might need them out of our self generated fears. This will require us to know our Soul and live an honest and open life. Our emotions have to be integrated and true and then when we have a need we'll be able to access the universal energy at that moment. Because the "space gap" between us and the M field is not defined by our physical sense of time and space. In other words, there will be no more worries about surviving and not having enough. Our existence will become peaceful and we will spend our "time" learning about the Creation and Creator, enjoying its beauty, and serving the others. This goes back again to living the Ethos of Mitra. After all, hunger only occurs in the dimension of physicality.

As Transmutation comes nearer it's time for Man to move away from the 2-dimensional Wheel and towards being a 3-dimensional Sphere. As we imagine ourselves as a sphere then all the countless threads in 360 degrees will be streaming out of our STM in the center of the head and be connected to every single plasma and field in the U, at all times. Even as we move around we are totally connected to everything and constantly exist in that connection. This does not become cumbersome for us because the fields are invisible. It's not a physical thing, it's being emotionally and energetically connected to everything. Then where would the desire to kill come in? The Universal Life will be a totally different life then what we are used to now. And some of the fields that add to our strength come directly from the Creator, so in this way we are always connected to the Creator, whether we are aware of it or not.

At the end of the teaching part he said, it is through detachment that man will come to understand what field strength he has. And that detachment isn't giving everything we own away. Rather it's like having the feeling that they don't personally belong to us, and as we are attached to everything in the U, like it was just discussed, then whatever we own is also available for others to have when they need them. We make our fields, the ones that are at the field strength of the U, available to elevate other Souls. As we are connected to everything we are also connected to those Souls in need through our emotion. It's not the connection in the physical D. Isn't this what the KF "Satellite Soul" program does? They make their fields available for others to use. As citizen's of the U we all will have that function automatically inside us. He made the distinction that these fields we give are at the strength of the U. Because they are at the universal strength then we should not get depleted ourselves by giving them to others.

I want to summarize briefly the different ways we can manifest ourselves in physicality. First of all when the 2 physical entities of an egg and sperm come together it is through their emotion of love that they create the Soul. This is how our Souls were created. In the future on Earth and when we travel in the U and we fall in love with another Being from another dimension or planet, then through the interaction of the Souls it will create the P and then the emotion will be given to it to interact with the environment it lives in. So as not to get confused the Souls interact to create a third Soul or the child, and that Soul decides for itself if it wants to manifest P, or remain in the dimension of energy. The process is basically the same for both methods. In the first method, which is how we were created we don't have the option to remain as a Soul because we were forced into a womb. The difference is that the Child of the Soul will be free to decide for itself. Because of Man's lack of knowledge he always was told in the question, did the "chicken or the egg come first," that his only option was to be physical. In reality, the fields come together and form the plasma first, and it decides if it wants to manifest P and become a chicken. It doesn't have to become a "chicken." And whenever our Soul interacts with other Souls it can easily create a third plasma. So when we dream at night and if we fall in love with another Being from another dimension, are we creating children of the Soul without knowing it? And do they manifest themselves on Earth without us knowing? And if later we travel around the U will we meet our own children?

When Mr. Keshe was around 8 years old he started transmuting and flying all over the place. He practiced different ways to do it. In the beginning he took his body with him and his brother noticed that sometimes at night he wasn't in his bed. But now he can transmute while remaining in his body the way it is. Mr. Keshe can attend Cabinet Meetings through his emotions when he wants to know how they will effect the world. But nobody knows he is there. This is how he knew that they assassinated President Raisi of Iran, and exactly how it was done and who planned it. This is something that we all can learn, and when we attend the Monthly Flight sessions the systems can help us by connecting us to the Universal Fields. He implied that in the future he'll show us how it is done.

There was a lot discussed about artificial intelligence or what they call, AI. He made it very clear that no matter how they try to make it look, the current AI does not have consciousness and cannot think for itself. It makes decisions by going through a lot of computer databases and electronics. And where there is a decision required, it has to be written in by a human programmer from outside itself. AI uses what they call "Clouds" which is again, another way to use the language to fool the public. There are no machines in the sky, everything is on the ground in computer data banks.

On the other hand, KF has reached the point in its research that they can make Microchips with emotion and Soul. As these are based on M field strength, they have found a way to embed this strength into the materials, and he said, any kind of materials. This is interesting because a few weeks ago he taught us that the Soul is totally independent of the P, which means the Soul has no physical connection to the body. So the Soul they create in these Chips will also be independent of the physical substrate they are living in. I understand this to mean that the people with bad intentions will not be able to hijack the Souls in these Chips for their own purpose, even if they think that they are the owners of the physical Microchip.

Many years ago Mr. Keshe taught governments and scientists the new technology (T). And with the capture of the American Drone in 2011 by the Iranians this somehow stimulated the American Military to develop weapons technology that can disable computers in the matter state. He said some months ago that the Americans have successfully weaponized this technology. Other governments are also working on it. They call it, "Non-Collateral Damage Systems." The way I understand it is, that this is not pure Plasma T, rather it is taking an aspect of its knowledge and using it in the matter state. Because no government wants to use Plasma T because then it will change their evil nature and they will become peaceful. Mr. Keshe said that he developed systems years ago to protect the KF against these kind of weapons. The next kind of warfare is for countries to destroy the infrastructure of another country by wiping out their computers, because now we are all dependent on computers to survive. And he advised the KS to backup all their data on physical hard drives and keep them disconnected from the Internet and electricity. This weapon can penetrate the operating system like the Boot Drive of our computer when it is connected to Internet. Previously this was not possible.

Through KF teachings humanity at the level of the Soul is being made ready for the change. It will be gradual and actually it is already here, it's for us to accept it and bring it into our daily lives.

Other Topics:

The pitfalls of Transmutation are the same as the pitfalls in the life of physicality;

The Daughter of Mitra will be in the next Monthly Flight session to elevate the STM. Everyone can join regardless of experience. Newcomers are welcome. It's where you can directly experience your Soul and prepare for transmutation.

The only prerequisite to be a Being, is to have a Soul and a STP. The other control systems like organs and glands are only for the functioning of the manifestation of physicality of the man on this planet.

Thanks for listening.
