

Translating M fields into Experience - STM & P as One - Soul Transfer Instead of Reincarnation - T Shown in Israel - Ayatollah asked to Release T - Secret Bank Accounts

Introduction to 562 KSW

Note: Not checked by KF interpretation by KS of KF Brazil

The transmutation process is coming along very nicely. Knowledge Seekers (KS) have reached the point where they can transmute with their Energy, or Soul to someplace and they say that it feels very real to them, but at the same time they know that their body has been left behind at home. One KS said he went to Athens, Greece and it felt very real to him, but he couldn't bring his body over. In this workshop Mr. Keshe talked about different aspects of how the Energy functions so that we get more used to recognizing that we are living two lives at the same time. One is in the dimension (D) of the Energy, or the Soul of the Man (STM) and the other is in the D of the physicality (P), but mainly we think of ourselves as a body, and we are educated to think of the Energy as just imagination. And this has become an obstacle as we try to complete the Transmutation process. Therefore, he taught us a lot about how the Soul functions and how we can encourage our P to begin to trust the Soul, so that when the Soul transmutes somewhere the P will feel safe to join it, knowing that it can come back to where it started from.

As we know certain types of dreams are actually the D of the Soul. In dreams we see images, hear sounds, and have thoughts. He said, these things are created when the Energy enters into us and it's like receiving messages on our computer. There is somebody at the other end sending the Energy down the lines. When we receive it our brain translates them into images that we understand. We could also say they are like M fields and they pass over our eyes and neurological system that is setup similar to a tape recorder, they translate the fields with the help of the brain into what we can recognize. These fields are at the strength of our mother, a flower, stone and everything else that our brain is conditioned to recognize. Our body is made to be able to convert these M fields. So in a way, we could say it is mechanical or scientific. But the truth is we don't really know how the things function, because we never had a deep knowledge in which to understand them before. So to us they all just happen automatically. Our body functions the same way in the waking state. The brain translates the Energy into sounds and sights we understand. It will be the same when we transmute, only we'll have a different body with different functions, and a different way to translate and convert the M fields into images. We will have to get used to the fact, that the Earth experience is only one of countless possibilities in the U. When we accept that, then we'll easily adapt and get use to the new format. All the visitors from the Universal Community have to do that when they come to Earth. And we'll learn to do the same.

The problems Knowledge Seekers are having with transmutation is that they cannot coordinate the two sides of the STM and P to work together as one. When we travel the Universe (U) we'll only use the Soul side, it's like in a dream when we see ourselves on another planet. This is much easier than transmuting on Earth, where we have to use the P side to manifest a physical body. The P has a lack of trust in the Soul because it is trained that the only reality is what we can see, hear, and feel with our senses. Another way to think about it is, like when you have those two half circle computer monitors in front of you that give a panoramic view. We really only tend to look at the right screen and we ignore the left, because we are not used to so much input for our brain to handle. And subconsciously we switch our view from the right screen to the left and watch only one at a time. Perhaps people who have trained themselves can look at both screens at the same time. Maybe it will be like that for us when we finally recognize the Soul and live in that dimension, then we can automatically add the P to it. If we are just living an ordinary human life we would only have one monitor, because it wouldn't make sense to have a second monitor since we deny that the Soul exists. However, with the Soul it seems that it automatically includes the P and doesn't need a second monitor. The hint he gave is that most of the creatures in the U if they have an eye, they only have one eye. They don't need a second because one everything goes through the Soul. This would imply that the Soul sees everything that is happening in the physical D. And this is the meaning of when we cross a dangerous street and we suddenly feel ourselves being pulled back from an accident waiting to happen. The Soul is already in contact with the Souls of the drivers, and they gave the warning not to cross the street. It's amazing to think about that the Soul is constantly watching over us, and we are completely unaware of it. The Monthly Flight sessions are now focused on training us to become aware and enjoy living in that dimension.

When we go to a place we have never been before and it feels like, or we remember being there, then we say we experienced Déjà vu. Mr. Keshe gave a new definition of it. He says, we have experienced it in the D of the Soul, and then it just took time before it manifested in P. I can understand a time delay of some hours or days, but I have this Déjà vu experience where the time delay is in years. Or would they call that, a premonition dream? After experiencing something I never knew before, sometimes I'll find myself saying, I dreamt that years ago. This is different than having a dream inside of a dream. The way I understand it is that while you are having a physicality dream, you go to sleep in that dream and have another dream. Would this be the same as one plasma being inside another plasma? The purpose of these discussions seems to be that there is a scientific explanation as to how the M fields interact and operate and that we should not think of it as just a strange phenomenon, rather it's a chance for us to become aware of how our Soul operates and then we can learn how to control it.

When Mr. Keshe told his personal experience of living in the desert for centuries, he specifically did not call it reincarnation. Rather he said, 'going through the life of the Soul, I lived in the desert for hundreds of years.' The Soul experienced that through a physicality. The body itself does not have the importance, it's the Soul that matters. If you listen carefully to people who talk about past lives their whole focus is that they think the physical body they have now, was the same as the physical body they had in a past life.

Mr. Keshe said, at the end of that cycle he transferred the Energy of the 'old man' to a P of a young child. What the child does in P, is not what the old man does in the essence of the Soul. In other words, the essence of Mr. Keshe's Soul has control over what he wants to experience, and that is totally separate from the physical body. In this case the language points to that he transferred his Soul to the boy, and was not born in a womb. And there must be a whole science about how the Soul of the boy has to agree to the transfer and what that means for that Soul's development. I understood the point to be about living as a conscious and self-aware Soul that has control over itself, then it can transmute where it wants. The body has a separate identity we call the P, but it exists from an Energy Center we call the Soul. At the end of its life the physical part of the P goes back to the Earth's elements and it seems that the essence part of its existence merges back to the STP, which is a higher dimension and that can surrender and be part of the STM. This will have to be explained more in the future.

We think of elevation of the STM as field strength coming from a higher dimension to elevate it. But he said, that the P can also receive fields to elevate itself, and then elevate the STP, and then the STM. Most spiritual traditions have made practices to transcend the P and leave it behind. A few have learned how to transform it back into light. Now we have to think about how we can absorb M field strength through the P so it can elevate itself. This will also become a path to Enlightenment and we'll stop littering the U with physical bodies.

It will be very hard for people to understand how KF operates and why it does the things it does. It seems the whole world has accepted the American model as a correct and good model. In this model when you discover something new you should write a book and setup a business where you can become rich for yourself and you do it under the disguise of helping others and they lead you to believe that you will become happy from this. People haven't yet understood that the actual basis for this kind of thinking is personal greed. We have seen this with companies that use the KF knowledge and technology in their products but hide it and pretend that it is their own invention. Their mentality is, you opened your patents, now we can do with it as we like. There is no culture and gracefulness in this way of thinking. An open patent to us means, we want to freely share the knowledge with everyone, and if you use the knowledge then you should honestly tell where it came from. Instead, they 'steal a gift' and then try to prevent others from accessing the knowledge. Part of the KF way of doing things is to be transparent and truly have the intent of sharing knowledge and not just making a fake advertising with the real intention of making more money. Mr. Keshe explained today how when KF technology was used to truly help the Japanese from a huge potential suffering that was in the process of happening with the Fukushima nuclear reactor. And what did the people in power, along with the Americans do? They hid the technology and started converting Tritium water from the reactors into Nano gold, which is worth millions a gram. And they just lie about it, and the people are so ignorant that they have accepted the falsehood as the truth. In the end we open the patents to share the knowledge so humanity can change, and we have to bear the suffering of those who cheat knowing that one day they will realize what they are doing.

The other part of the KF mentality is that all the work we do has the intention knowingly and unknowingly to help humanity understand how the M fields interact and to discover that we have the power to control them within ourselves through our emotions and intention. So for example, when we buy a KF pillow it is made with specific Gans's and plasma technology to help elevate our Soul and to understand the Knowledge of Creation. When we sleep on it the fields are set to interact with the Souls and very subtle changes begin to occur. Some people when they use the products don't "feel" things the way they expect to feel them, and then they think that the product doesn't work and they want their money back. This is not a strange reaction, because this is the way our society has been setup and we all accept it as the proper way. A loving father understands the way his children think and behave and he uses that to help his children learn, simply because he loves them, and not so that he can get something from them. Society has changed so much in the past century that this has become a foreign idea, and this makes it more difficult to spread the technology. We as Knowledge Seekers are lucky because as we accept the Knowledge within ourselves and it changes us, then through us it will spread to the others. He said today that those of us who mature will become the teachers of the others. It doesn't mean we'll setup the "Guru Businesses" that we see happening today, rather our life will become a light for the others to see clearly how they should live. It's not about believing in a new idea, rather it's about discovering the Energy we have always had within ourselves, and standing up in that. Then it might just be a simply change over into the New Age, without having to go through all the destruction.

An important part of the training for transmutation is to learn how to be guided by the Soul, or what we call the STM. A long time ago he talked about being able to distinguish the difference between the STM, STP and the P, and that they each have their own emotions and thoughts. If we are living a normal life in the world this will be very difficult because we are not trained to have mental focus. In fact, we are trained in the opposite way, to not have focus and be the victim of all the different fields we come in contact during the day with other people, and especially the mobile phone and Internet. It will be a great challenge to hear the whisper of the Soul over the constant stream of loud voices wanting our attention for this and that. Then he made that comment, see where it takes you but don't jump off a cliff. Because until we are trained there will be voices that tell us to do things and we won't be able to distinguish what it is. This reminded me of a very special man named Maurice Frydman and when he was a young Russian Orthodox monk he said to himself, if God exists He will save me when I jump off this cliff. He jumped and broke all his bones, but he recovered and it would seem that he found his way to his Soul. Later he lived a life of service in India and did a lot of great things in the background that were unknown in the public. I admired that he had that passionate inner fire to act on what he believed in, and even when he did a foolish thing, he was able to use it to find his way to his Truth. Anybody else might have blamed God for making him jump off a cliff, and become bitter and cynical. This also goes to show that if the attitude is one of love for the Truth, then even a foolish act turns out right, because the person learned from it and it brought them forward. And it also shows that we are responsible for our own life and what we do with what we have been given. Mr. Keshe is trying to show us the way to find our own Inner Guide, or the Soul, instead of being dependent on an outer guru. Transmutation is not just for travel, it's for starting a new life in the Soul.

He said there is another path to the Soul other than going through the higher fields of the STM and that is using the P. The key is to be mature, then we can use the structure of the P to receive the higher M field strength from the Universal Energies. The link is through the H and C14 of the AA of the body. This means the CH side of the CONH. They are directly linked to the Creator and we have to find the way to reach those fields. He did not say there was a method to follow. Again its going inside and understanding our emotions and purpose in life, and focusing our desire in that direction.

The situation in the Middle East is still very critical and Mr. Keshe is working very hard in the background to bring peace and release the T. He said there was a video showing the use of the Star Formation (SF) over the skies of Tel Aviv. We can see the fire from the bombs down below and suddenly in the sky one light comes on, then a second and third one forming a triangle, and then we see a barrage of anti-aircraft missiles being fired at the light and the missiles all disappeared. And then a second barrage of missiles but this time they were disappearing farther away than the first ones. He explained this as, they increased the field strength of the SF and therefore the plasma shielding extended further away giving greater protection. This is KF Star Formation plasma technology that was developed in Iran and now they have shown it. He called upon the Ayatollah Khamenei of Iran to stop the war and release the technology worldwide. This T makes all weapons technology and nuclear weapons obsolete as they can all be dissolved. This T was used for defensive purposes and not for the bombing raid that created so much damage to the Israeli Military that they are hiding from the public. It means the "Iron Dome" has rusted and it's so bad that Netanyahu has sent his wife out of Israel for her protection, leaving all the other wives behind and exposed. As long as his wife is safe, then he can continue bringing the war.

When Mr. Keshe was asked if this SF had a Soul, he said, of course it has a Soul. This is probably why it is only used for defense and why at the moment it is beyond our understanding. When asked if the systems were non-tangible he only answered they were man powered and controlled. This leads me to think they are still dependent on the matter state, and they have not reached the independence of a "Free Plasma" so they still can malfunction. And because they had to make 3 different reactors to form the SF it means the technology is repeatable. This is all speculation because we don't know how far developed they are. For one thing, why didn't they use them to protect Iran last week in the missile attack by Israel? There are more things to consider.

At the end of the workshop he laid out the current situation in Iran. American bases have totally surrounded Iran and they are waiting for the right opportunity to setup their own government there like they have done everywhere else. Many high ranking government people are holding multiple passports, and have been educated in the US. It looks like the Americans have put this General Rouhani into place to be the next ruler of Iran when they can eliminate the Ayatollahs, whom they themselves setup like Saddam Hussein. The moment you hear he was trained as a US Marine it is so obvious who he works for. Iran has become the next key step towards global domination. As he said, all the leaders around the world have bank accounts in the Rothschild's secret family banking system and this creates an almost impossible situation. It's all a fake show and because people are emotionally weak inside since they don't know they have a Soul, they are forced to accept this illusion as a way to feel safe. Nevertheless, it takes one electron to flip polarity, and the others will start flipping.

Other Topics:

The reason KS cannot transmute at this time is because their P doesn't trust the Soul;

You are the possessor of love and you give from the root of the essence of your creation. This is the meaning of the word, Mehran. It means to give unconditionally with the Love of the Creator. If you understand this, you can transmute.

Thanks for listening.
