Introduction to 586 KSW

Another name for this workshop could be, how emotion creates motion and that's how we will move ourselves in the Universe (U). Mr. Keshe always tirelessly brings us back to the emotions, but at the same time he gives us a new angle in which to contemplate our inner life and eventually access our Soul of the Man (STM). At the moment we are stuck in the physicality (P) of rockets, driving cars, and moving our bodies to go somewhere and do something. But this is all we have known up to the point he started teaching us the Knowledge of Creation, where the P is not the main focus, and in the U we can live without manifesting the P. He asked us to imagine what life would have been like if our ancestors would have chosen to stay in the dimension (D) of Energy or the Soul, instead of becoming so attached to the physical body and believing that only the matter state is real. How would that look in our daily life? For one thing we would just appear in places that we want to be, and not have to make the body get up and walk to the car and drive somewhere. If we think about it, that takes a lot of time and energy on something that is not needed. With all the extra time we can't just watch TV, that gets so boring after awhile. We would need to develop our mental capacities for knowledge and have interest in how Creation works. Instead of looking at life through the tiny 'key hole' of our current programming, we would expand out and soon learn everything about the Earth, and when that gets exhausted expand out into the solar system, galaxy and beyond. As they said in Star Trek, 'to go where no man has gone before.' This will become our life, and not doing meaningless jobs in offices to push papers around for someone else's ideas. We'll develop our own ideas and interests and pursue them wherever they lead, even beyond this planet.

To do all of this we have to understand and learn how to create and control our emotions. We will have to expand our emotions beyond the only few we know like happiness, anger, sadness, joy, jealousy, excitement and the rest. Maybe we'll come to understand through our inner process how emotion is a field strength of existence and that the Soul already knows how to create them. And that it is the Soul of Physicality (STP) and P that are limiting us. Today's teaching is a kind of journey to ponder about the different aspects of emotions and at the same time it is filled with many different subjects that are related to our future life in Space. At one point Mr. Keshe said, it's amazing how much knowledge one carries. That's the feeling one gets by reading through the Topic Index, that is if you can make it to the end without the brain shutting off from knowledge overload. It's just that we are not used to being exposed to so much living knowledge. We are more trained to copy other peoples concepts, then being part of the knowledge itself. As we get more exposed to the plasma fields through using the technology (T), hopefully the 'Emotion of Knowledge' will also expand and the society will get the feeling of love for the plasma science and together we'll all elevate towards a peaceful and loving planet. Then we won't need to deny the Soul just so we have something to do.

One of the very nice abilities that will open up to us is that when we are thirsty we won't need to create an emotion to move the body to go to the kitchen and physically get a glass of water. Instead we'll just generate the feeling of the water and it will start manifesting in our mouth. This was demonstrated years ago in the Linz KF Center. If you remember some people were in the Flight System and their mouths were getting flooded with water, so much that they had difficulty swallowing. And additionally, years ago during the Flight Sessions where we used headphones to connect through the phone lines to the KF systems, people were reporting that they were getting a lot of water in their mouth. Mr. Keshe never explained it at that time, he left it for us to understand. Now today it makes sense, because the first thing people will think is that this is not possible. But we know it is because we already experienced it. Now we are trying to do it on our own using our emotions without a plasma system.

A good practice to train for this, is that when we are thirsty and have a real need for water, we can sit on our sofa and try to connect to the water. We shouldn't in a forceful way say, I want a glass of water, come to me. We should try to be lower than the water and most humble like the Creator. We can try to feel how the water tastes and try to receive its energy by first giving to the water what it needs. Well, what does water need? That's a good question. He said, we should tune ourselves into what it needs. It is my understanding that we should shift our minds from thinking of it as a dead object, and think of it as fields. Then with our Soul we can create an Infinity Loop interaction with it and have the feeling of loving it as part of the Creator and give our fields to it. At first we'll have to do it with our imagination, and as we get more experience it will become a reality. When the water gets full of the fields of that emotion they will overflow and expand to us and fill us up. And at some point water should start forming in our mouth. Or maybe we'll feel our thirst has been satisfied with its fields. It's for us to practice and learn, and then share with the rest of the Knowledge Seekers (KS).

The other thing we have to use our emotions for is to move our body instead of walking or driving a car. In other words, we transmute our P with our emotions. As we are having a hard time developing or remembering this ability, he is creating more advanced systems to help us. Many KS have reported transmuting with their Soul, but it is not so clear if any have yet managed to do it with the P but are not yet disclosing it. One of the more advanced technologies developed to help us with our emotions is the new Twinity MaGrav system and it's even better when it is embedded with the Cosmic Ray materials (CRm). The testimony shared today is by a KS using this embedded system. He made his own subjective evaluation of his emotions and gave a list of the ones the system helped him purify. It is interesting that he is claiming that the system helped him conquer his Ego in one week, and he thinks that it would have taken 3.5 months to do it through another training. There wasn't enough information to evaluate what exactly he means, but it is interesting to think about.

To my understanding, Mr. Keshe has never given a method for going deeper into the emotions. For good reasons, otherwise we would just start copying the method and get nowhere. People can also fool themselves into thinking they have control over their emotions and then if they start trying to teach their confused understanding to others, it can become a real mess. We see this happening all over the "so-called" Western Spirituality movement, and it becomes more like a spiritual entertainment business, then anything else. This will not help us with transmutation, because you cannot fool the Soul with shallow words of the STP. I don't believe we have much experience with the kind of emotions he is talking about here, especially in a society that has been purposely kept at the level of the adolescent in order to have control over the social, economic, and political worlds.

To enter the world of these kinds of emotions requires a personal and total commitment to go deep into understanding our inner world. That's why it seems Mr. Keshe just gives us small nudges and tries to gently coax us into taking the path of self-investigation and deep inner work. It cannot be forced and we have to approach it in a loving way that will build our self-confidence. Because in the end, it seems to me, that the emotions are something simple we already have inside of us, but because we deny the Soul's existence, we also deny ourselves access to them. And when somebody happens to have a sincere and innocent wish, they appear to have great powers. But since we are in denial we make up some other kind of story about it, or just ignore it. How then will humanity as a whole enter this new dimension of being a race that is emotionally healthy, open, and in touch with its emotions? How much can the plasma technology help us overcome this deficiency? Is it a matter of just elevating the general M field strength of our STM? Or do we have to go through a process of maturing ourselves? Or is it a little of both? Maybe Mr. Keshe will surprise us with a technology especially for our condition that we never could have imagined existed. Let's see how it unfolds.

He mentioned many times today about becoming the lowest field and humble like the Creator and that the law of the U is the stronger plasma always gives to the weaker to make it equal with itself, or what he calls, bringing balance. Some years ago I tested this and found it to be true. I was in a situation where another organization took over the place I was staying, and there was a person on the Board who was part of the decision making process of whether or not I could remain living there. I knew that person did not like me at all and his habit was to get rid of people and I was well aware of what was taking place 'behind closed doors.' I made myself lower than him and spoke to his Soul. I said, 'I know you have the power to ask me to leave, and that for whatever reason you don't like me I don't question that, but I am no threat to you and will do nothing against you. I would greatly appreciate if you would allow me to stay and continue my work.' Normally, what we call being lower is to suddenly change our feeling to one of being afraid of losing, and then begging the other person not to hurt us. That is not a true humility, because it's generated from a crisis and when the crisis is over the old feelings come back. In a way, it is based on the physical D where the stronger takes control over the weaker and the decisions will be made according to who has the greater strength in the physical interactions. Working with the Plasma is something different and it's a little difficult to explain. First of all there is no fear, and there is no degrading of ones status as a Soul.

You are not 'selling your Soul' like you do when you beg, because in that situation your physical mind really does believe the other person has power over you. This is the way we have setup our world. However, when you work with the Soul the other person only has apparent power over you due to the physical circumstances. In the dimension of the Soul you recognize those circumstances, but you don't lose your status as an equal Soul. The internal feelings are pure, innocent, and sincere, and are not from a calculating mind making itself lower to get its way. When you experience it, then you will understand the difference. I have to say, that night I did feel something like a sharp pain, or knife in the heart from that person, but to my surprise I was allowed to stay. This whole experience occurred at the level of the Soul and no words were ever spoken about it. And from this experience I understood that indeed the strongest gives to the weakest, it has to, because that is the law of Creation. And that we should never judge a situation based only on the outer circumstances, and learn to work at the level of the Energy. And when there is a need we seem to be able to naturally generate the emotion needed.

Humbleness can also be described in a scientific way as the H plasma. The lowest accumulation of plasma elements is H and everything is made in the plasma D from adding more hydrogen's to it, and then it manifests P. It's the lowest essence of Creation and is connected to Cosmic Rays as was discussed in the past. The essence of Creation comes out of the Creator, so are they really two separate things? The lowest point of the Creator would be the Fundamental Plasma or H and it never holds onto anything, and it never stops giving. This was the meaning of the Mother with 4 hungry children and only 4 eggs. By her giving, or her unconditional love she gave everything to her children and had nothing left for herself. Then out of the love for the Mother the children gave half of their egg back to her and she ended up with 2 eggs. This is a teaching parable and not a lesson in Accounting. It's for us to ponder and feel what our life is about. Do we think, 'oh, now I have 2 eggs more, what should I do with them? Or now I have become unexpectedly rich, I will put the 2 eggs in the bank.' If we are honest with ourselves, then these are the kind of thoughts in our programming. The way I understand the Creator being able to constantly give is that He feels He is self-contained within Himself, and doesn't have to fight with the environment for survival the way we do, or the way we think we do.

The other part is that for life to take place there has to be a circulation of the energy or everything will remain still, like the Void. If all the energy is contained within Me, then I have to give to receive so that it flows. This is the Yin and Yang, or the M and G. The only way to find out is to do it. We have to jump out of our conditioning and trust that the Knowledge of Creation is correct, and then see what happens. It's a personal journey and if we wait for life to force it on us, like with a terminal disease or something, then it can become very traumatic. But it doesn't have to be that way. The physical mind and the Ego do not believe it, and if we try to live this way they will attack us heavily. This is where knowledge, faith, courage, devotion to the Truth, and connection to our Soul are needed. It's a personal decision, but once we experience it, then we'll understand what it means when Mr. Keshe constantly reminds us that the power is within us.

A good example of today's teaching is Rick. He is one of the original Knowledge Seekers and many of the people who joined KF in its early years with him have disappeared, but not Rick. Regardless of what is happening in the physical dimension his Soul has one pointed devotion to Mr. Keshe, the KF, and the Teachings. He is always showing up and always giving and he creates an inspiration for all of us to do the same. It seems that as he gives more, we give more, and the flow increases and the knowledge spreads. He feeds what he receives back into the Teachings. Whereas some of the other KS took the knowledge and then tried to make it their own and profit from it. We see clearly what happened to them, they went nowhere. The gift Rick is giving to humanity is so huge on the Energy level, and in the future when the technology finally takes root in the normal society we'll look back in awe at how much love a Soul is capable of giving. It's wonderful that Mr. Keshe gave the 6th seat of the donated flight to Rick, as he never asked for it himself.

The question about if inter-atomic fusion happens to us when we die was very difficult to decipher. The following is what I understood from it. First of all, inter-atomic fusion just means regular fusion and is a process where two or more atomic nuclei combine to form one or more different atomic nuclei. In this process huge amounts of energy is released. They say this is what powers the sun and other stars. There is a lot to discuss but we'll just narrow it down. Why is this the same as when we die? Because our STM is a plasma just like the Sun, and at death we have accumulated fields through our interactions during life. Those include how we lived our life in terms whether we were a giver, which ended up adding to our fields, or if we were only a taker then fields were taken from us. If we corrected our behavior and became a giver, then we probably added a lot of energy to our nucleus. Mr. Keshe included in this accumulation of Energy how our Soul was positioned in relation to the planets environment, whether we moved up or down, right or left. Maybe this is similar to how the angle of the planet increases the number of field interactions that led to higher life forms on Earth. And because humans can move around in all directions, we can accumulate more fields. At the end of life we have accumulated a certain amount of fields that determines our next position in the U. But he never explained how our STM fuses with other plasmas. Instead he said, in all of these field interactions we are always connected to the Soul of the Creator (STC) and that He will dictate the position of our Soul. It's not clear what he means. Is this just a general positioning, and then the fine tuning of how we will manifest depends on the TPP? Many times he said that the local fields will always have an influence of how we will manifest ourselves.

Then he talked about how two plasmas that are slightly different from each other in G and M field strengths, but connected, interact with each other to balance their fields. The stronger will give to the weaker and the final result is a fusion of the two plasmas. And this is how plasmatic nuclear fusion takes place in the U, and not by smashing two nucleuses together. The release of energy occurs when the two plasmas that are of slightly different field strength, interact to balance each other. Is this what the scientists measure with their instruments and call, 'nuclear energy'? If it is, then it is much easier to understand through plasma than matter state.

Understanding about salts is very important in Plasma T and today he expounded more about it. The salts are a combination of a metal and non-metal and they make a connection between the two and also allow for transferring of energy from one to the other. For instance, Na is a metal and Cl is a non-metal and NaCl or table salt, which is essential for life of the body. We think of metal as the hard stuff like iron, but in this case it also means the material and physical part of the body. And the non-metal part includes the biological part. The Ca, Na, and Potassium (K) all have a special energy ratio so that one can imitate the other. This is why we need salt in our stomach for the conversion and connection of the energies. It's my understanding that for example, when we eat vegetables the salt converts them to energy or Gans's and at the same time they allow those Gans's to connect to the Ca which is a metal in the bone. This is why our flesh, which are Gans's can stick to bones. It doesn't just stick, if you have seen meat on a bone it is fused into the bone and you have to cut it off. (But if you cook the meat enough then it falls off. So does cooking change the MG field strength? It seems like the meat and the bone are acting like solid magnets). This occurs because of the MG field vacuum in the body. I think vacuum in this case refers to a single M field strength and not a vacated chamber as we normally use the word.

Because the scientists don't understand about Plasma Science they only regard the stomach as acidic. But the acid part of the stomach is only for breaking down of the food so it can be converted into a Gans. Then I think he means the stomach becomes alkaline and the salts are used to transfer the energy of the Gans's into the body through the Lymph. It's the same way the saltwater in our Gans Boxes change the Nano materials into a Gans, it transfers it into an energy. On this same topic we should add about the salt content in the Middle Layer of the skin, it's what transfers energy between the inside and outside of the body. It let's in things we need and releases what we don't need to the environment. If we cannot let things out then they will accumulate in that layer and can become diseases like cancer.

When the scientists observed things they couldn't understand they started making up all these different names. In a way, their fantasies have now become a reality for people and they don't want to consider other possibilities. For example, neutrinos are what we call, passive M fields traveling across the U and when they interact they become active and can become like a Black Hole. A star and a Black Hole are basically the same thing, only in the matter state a star can be seen because it is primarily M fields radiating out. Whereas, a Black Hole appears black because it is primarily G fields pulling everything in. But from an Energy point of view they are basically the same thing. Then they came up with Up and Down Quarks for subatomic particles. So the Sun would be like an Up Quark and the Earth would be a Down Quark. When we understand the totality of the knowledge we won't have these problems.

The latest KF plasma system is tilted to imitate the Earth. But just because it is titled doesn't mean you can connect to it. It takes a lot of knowledge about the composition of the central fields of the Earth and the Inertia of the materials. They have created a Soul of the system that is based on the structure of life on this planet. It's extremely advanced, and they can control all angles of it. Hopefully, it will be operational in a couple of weeks. On 2 panels of it they have created a full flight system and there are no dynamic rotating systems inside it. It's built the way the U was created. Dynamic rotation is created through the interaction of the internal fields together with the environment. It's an evolution in the world of science and technology that will change a lot of things. There are a lot more things in this workshop we were not able to get to. Please spend as much time as you can studying this KSW.
