The main part of the teaching seemed to be that the essence of the workings of Creation is through the MG fields. Everything is always pointing to being able to understand how the fields are created and how to work with them. Over the years we have been taught about the fields step by step and today Mr. Keshe put some of that knowledge together in a way to prepare us for the upcoming plans to show the creation of materials from the plasma M fields to the world, and we have to be able to understand what we are seeing. There is a massive amount of information today, therefore we'll just take a few subjects and try to understand them a little bit more.

The main problem we have had as humanity is that our scientists have only looked at the matter state side of Creation and have denied the Energy side, or what we call the Soul of the Man (STM). When we say, 'Soul' we don't mean the religious concepts that have been used to keep the Man ignorant, but what we call the Energy, is that which animates all of life, and is consciousness, awareness, intelligence, emotion, love and things like that. In the physical dimension (D) we learned from observation about the elements and could melt and create alloys and then shaped them into material objects to use with a purpose. In the plasma state we relate to materials in a totally different way, because the materials actually come out of the Energy. We say that Cu has this field strength and Fe has that strength. It's the M fields that becomes the matter. The M field strength is measured by accumulation of energy packages and it can have any shape and purpose we give it. In matter state for example, we say that Cu is tangible and it only has these properties. But Cu as a plasma is an energy state measured as its M and G fields and it is not limited to its matter manifestation. For example, something that has the field strength of Cu, though it is not Cu can have the properties of Cu. Mr. Keshe has discussed this in greater detail in previous teachings.

Today he didn't mention about the plasma being a spiral and that each plasma can manifest everything in Creation. It just depends on where you tap into that field strength to get it to manifest that particular thing. This means that the same plasma can be Cu when you tap into it at the field strength of Cu, and later you can change it to the field strength of Fe. But this requires a lot of understanding. All the plasmas have the same field spectrum. And all the plasmas are connected to everything else in the U. The reason for this is that everything came from the field divisions of the Creator, therefore the Creator is the common denominator field strength that connects everything together. When we transmute our Soul uses the M fields to find and recognize all the other Souls or plasmas in the U. When we dream of our grandmother our Soul knows how to find her exact position wherever she may be in the Universe (U) now through these connections.

The Soul has some very interesting properties. When we experience something fantastic in our dreams, when we wake up we say, that was only a dream. In this way we are denying the existence of the Soul. For example, when we dream about our mother it's a reality. It's the Soul's reality and we can do that because it is connected to every single thing in the U through the background connection to the Creator. In dreams that we are more conscious of, we find out that our mother knows everything about us even though she died 20 years ago. How can that be? This is one of the properties of the Soul, it has access to all the information of every cell in our body, in what it has done, and been connected to, up to that moment of the dream. This is why she can tell us what we were doing yesterday with precision even down to the feelings and thoughts we had. It's really not a question of whether there is life after death like so many people wonder, rather, is death itself real, or does it only apply to the body? And once a Soul establishes a M field connection it remains forever. When we start living more in our Soul, than only considering ourselves a body, then we'll have access to all the dimensions of the U, and our life will be completely different than what we are living today.

The next step in the transmutation process is for the 7 Knowledge Seekers (KS) to transmute, hopefully by Monday April 27th. They have been sent special materials that will be placed around their body and they will create an energy vortex around themselves and be able to transmute from it. Years ago KF created the Vertical Enhancement Unit where you would go in a box on one side and be transmuted physically to another Unit on the other side. Now instead of using the Unit, the materials will be used to setup the same field dimension in their own home and they'll be able to transmute on their own. Of course, they will still connect to the main KF system which will have certain controls over them. But the purpose is to help the KS be able to transmute on their own without a system. This is another step on the way to that. And also to train these 7 to become captains to carry other Souls through transmutation. Then the following week the selected captains will carry 35 volunteers with them as groups. They will transmute to a predetermined location. If this is successful, then the materials can be converted into a hat with 2 pairs of gloves and socks, which will be filled with certain materials and allow the users to create the same fields as the Vertical Enhancement Unit to transmute with.

There was more teaching about M fields. The M field maps our scientists show are wrong. They only show what they call a magnetic field coming into the South and exiting the North Pole, but all the other fields are missing. Remember that when you put iron dust on a paper above a magnet it shows only the M field lines, and the G fields are in the empty gaps between them. The way I understand it is that, fields are coming in and interacting inside the Earth so much that they start to rotate around inside and this causes the Earth to rotate. In a way, this is that "electric motor" that he always says the Earth doesn't have. These rotating fields not only cause the Earth to rotate but also the protons and electrons to spin. And he said, the rotation of the galaxies, but it's not clear how that happens. These must be very powerful fields. He'll have to expand on this later.

Then he taught about how M field strengths are determined. Every M field crossing the U is really a Twin system. This means that it is paired with a G field going in the opposite direction at the same time. I understood that being 'equal and opposite' to mean that they match each other and that's why they stay together. The space gap between the two predetermines what field strength it has. For example, if the M field is strongest, then you subtract its G field from it and the difference is the overall strength of the M field? Then you do the same for the G fields. I think this is how to measure the strength of a field. Then the average space gap between them dictates their position as they move in respect to each other. So when we talk about M fields in the back of our mind we should think that there is also a G field connected to it, but it is of a lower strength than the M. This will take some getting used to, because we were taught only about gravity and how to overcome it. What we call, 1G of gravity, actually also has a weaker M field attached to it. This is why we are stuck on rockets for space travel, because we only think about overcoming gravity. Instead we should think that if we can control the M field it can easily push us to our destination. In summary, what we call a M field is one where its paired G field is less than itself. And likewise, a G field means it is stronger than its paired M field. It's actually quite simple and for Space travel we will learn how to control the strength of these fields. He gave a hint when he said we control the M fields by adjusting and creating G fields in the opposite direction inside the systems.

First, Mr. Keshe explained a lot about the M fields and how they interact with each other, so that when he introduced the new materials not from this planet, that were created near the new KF Flight System, we would understand how advanced the Plasma Technology has become. In the photos we see many little white irregular shaped balls of different sizes spread around on a table and he asked us to identify what they are. Are they pieces of chalk or candy, and why is there a dead fly in the middle of them? Of course, we don't know what they are, but he says, he does because they have certain characteristics that are known to him. In the U they don't have chemistry labs to analyze things. To identify them we'll need to measure their GM field strength, as this is how identity is established in the U. Did the fly die because it could not adapt to the change in the MG fields of the environment? And would this become a symbol for the Man's travel into Space if he doesn't learn the Knowledge of Creation and how to adapt to new conditions?

Aliens that come to Earth don't all come by a UFO, they can come as a field transfer and then their Soul has to connect and adapt to the new environment. He said, these balls started out as dust and then through interaction of their fields with the local fields of the time, place, and position (TPP) developed into the shape we see on the table. This is the same process we went through in the womb of our mother. It's a huge lesson and confirmation of how life is created in the U. What I understand is that the system has created the MG fields of somewhere in the U and these fields interacted with the Inertia and environmental fields of the TPP of Earth and manifested as the balls on this table. This is what we will do when we transmute to other parts of the U. And that's why sometimes he mentions about our fields passing a planet and being turned into stones. Maybe if these fields would have managed to come here on their own, and were passing in the Earth's environment and if they could not use their emotions to convert to the local manifestation of human life, then they could become stones. The next time we are walking out in the nature and looking at the beautiful stones, we can wonder if any of them are Aliens from other parts of the U. It also means it could happen to us if we don't learn to properly transmute, or are not in control of our emotions. The different scriptures have stories of people being turned into stones, but for other reasons. Were they trying to teach humanity something about the U, but that is all humanity could understand at that time? In the 1977 Jesus of Nazareth film there is one scene where John the Baptist says, 'if the Lord wanted he could turn any one of these stones into a 'son of Abraham.'" When I first saw that scene I thought, well if God is omnipotent He can do anything. I never imagined that there was such a deep science behind those words. And it also shows how ignorant we are of the Knowledge of Creation.

The new system is a replica of the Earth and what the Earth makes, the system can also make. It can produce gases, materials as what we see on the table, energy, food, motion, emotion which is a field strength, water, and everything else. Earth is really like a spaceship and we are already travelers of the U, but we are not conscious of it. There is so much knowledge Mr. Keshe wants to share with us and he said it's his habit not to hold secrets, but he is afraid because Man is not ready, and then we'll end up abusing it. Man's Ego is one of the biggest things that stops him from being able to travel the U and the other is his denial of his own creation. In other words, we have denied that we are creating our own life and instead we act as if we are victims of circumstances. That's why we are being taught about the emotion and how to create and control them. It seems that all of these systems are controlled by the emotions and we may wonder how are we ever going to reach that point? Maybe our generation won't totally and completely reach the point of enlightenment, and that's why they are helping us with the plasma technology. Hopefully, the new generation of Man will be born of the Soul and not need the T. It's our job to do the hard work and prepare the ground so the change can happen for the next generation. Nevertheless, it is very clear that the killing and destruction have to be taken out of the Man at the level of the Soul and that will change the DNA.

When we reach the point that we are able to travel the U, that is the time when Mr. Keshe will depart from us. It always brings a pain in the heart when he speaks of his departure. Maybe it's because I am constantly in the flow of his sharing knowledge and love that I can't imagine the time that, that will stop. And I worry that somehow the work won't be completed like how it happened with all the previous Prophets, and that the current rulers of the planet will continue their oppression. It's just a habitual fear that has no basis in reality. He made it clear that the Daughter of Mitra will takeover and guide us in adapting ourselves to life in the U. As she only communicates at the level of the Soul, then we'll have to be elevated at that time to even be able to relate with her since she might not take a physical form. Our future is so bright and beautiful that it is beyond what we can imagine. And we don't have long to wait.

What KF is achieving in the labs is becoming so advanced and so deep he's afraid to tell us about it. He did not show us the system, instead he showed us photos of the meter that analyzes the gases the system produces and can control. We can see the O<sub>2</sub>, CH<sub>4</sub>, CO<sub>2</sub>, and others and some numbers. When we see the C, O, H, N then we know it has the ability to create protein or AA, and thus create life. KF through science has become a controller and creator of life on this planet. We can create the AA of our Soul and adjust the system to produce anything we like. It's because we have learned how to create M and G fields and to control their field strength. We can create the AA of any element or any life, anywhere in the U. We can make the AA dynamic and he has the knowledge to give it intelligence and emotion. We can build robots that are alive and peaceful. We can make Microchips that have emotion and power themselves with their own energy supply. The new systems will have a brain and a Soul. In another part of the workshop he showed how the meter changed numbers which indicates that the system is changing the field strength and it becomes another element like going from H to CO<sub>2</sub>. This is why it is time to start showing the T to the world and begin the change.

In the past he taught a lot about how cancer is created, and that it becomes too G and forms a Black Hole that starts pulling all the energy around it from the body into itself. Nobody actually dies from cancer, instead they die from a lack of energy, because the cancer is taking all the energy the body needs to live. When the cancer starts moving around the body the doctors gave it the name and say it has metastasized, but it really means that more Black Holes are being formed in other parts of the body. In the future instead of doing blood tests we'll use the Plasma T to check the energy of the cells and determine if the lumps will turn into cancer. But before using the T to change the cancer we have to ask the Soul if it wants to live. Otherwise we will not interfere with its plans. This was the case with Jon, a very dear KS who died from the chemotherapy treatments for cancer some time ago. Mr. Keshe told him we have the knowledge to interfere with every part of the body and we can control the emotion. But we have no right to interfere with what he wanted. The decision was his. In the end, it is the Soul that decides whether to accept or reject the use of the technology to change something. And we know that the STM is of a higher order field and is directly connected to the Creator.

Today was an important 'decision day' for the future of humanity and Mr. Keshe spent a lot of time discussing about whether or not humanity was ready for the release of the T. The thoughts going through him were whether to hold back the knowledge and let Man suffer for centuries more to come, or to push ahead and release as much knowledge as possible to create the change quickly and across the world. He said, he made the decision in the past 24 hours to go ahead and release the T. He plans to show the creation of materials from the fields on May 10th to the 13th and by the recent posts on X it seems it will be done in China. We should not be held back by other peoples fear. This means that the old T can continue for some time, but we have to offer the new T for those who want to use it. The Man's scientists have to understand it and humanity has to accept the change. He figures this will take about 50 years for total adoption, but we need to start now. The systems have the capability to directly interact with the fields of our emotion, and hopefully this will be used to help bring in the change.

He can also make a Black Hole that will collect and sink the particular field strength that causes Man to kill. The change will not come through Gans's, but by understanding the field strength that causes the killing and removing it. While at the same time we'll be able to receive the energy needed to survive through the fields. It cannot just be forced on us, we need to understand it as well. This is where the KS will play a vital role in spreading the use of the T. The whole purpose of the T is not to give a machine that makes gases, materials, flight systems, energy, and the rest. Rather the T has been developed so that the Man can change the strength of his Soul and stop killing and then he will be free to travel the U.

A KS brought up about being more attracted to Space and the plasma, rather than being in the physical condition. I felt that Mr. Keshe took the answer in a different direction by saying that transmutation opens us up to more knowledge and having a greater understanding of the way things really are in this messed up world we have created for ourselves. And it's not about being attracted to Space or being detached from Earth. I would like to share with you how I understood his answer. What I have noticed in myself is that earlier in my life I used to live like everyone else, in denial of how things really are in the world. And when certain awakenings started occurring I realized that what I had been taught about the world was fundamentally wrong. And when that starts to happen one feels how painful it is to live without love, then subconsciously we are programmed to find a way to escape and the peacefulness of Space becomes very attractive and one wants only to be in That. In a subtle way he implied that when we have those feelings it means we haven't learned enough yet. And I added the part about wanting to escape into peace because I remember that as part of my process. And if we sincerely desire to go deeper into the process then we receive more light and understand that our true purpose on Earth is to become Masters of our own Soul and our own destiny. Earth is our training ground to be able to serve the Creation and not try to find permanent happiness here. This is the Ethos of KF and the purpose of sharing the knowledge with humanity to bring the change.

Other topics:

With the new T you can get pregnant through the field energy without even having sex, it's called virgin birth. We can even make a Man pregnant;

I made the decision to keep KF independent and free to do what we need to do. Because my commitment is to KS and not to those funding us.

If any of the 7 during the Flight want to see God, you are welcome to.

Thanks for listening.
