Today's workshop goes deeper into the understanding of emotion and the importance of it, for being able to transmute. But first Mr. Keshe summarized the recent teachings and how we are not the individuals we think we are, but rather we are part of the Totality of the soup of the fields of the Universe (U). As we learned we don't need intermediaries to absorb the rays of the Sun, in the same way the Soul of the Man (STM) receives the light of the Creator, and in interaction with the Soul of the Physicality (STP) creates the physicality (P) according to the conditions of the environment. The physical body is made up of billions of cells, in the same way we are a cell in the body of the Creator. Just as the cells in our body get recycled after a period of time, so too does the Man get recycled after less than a hundred years and goes through what we call, death, which is really a recycling process. What we start to see is that all of Creation goes through the same process, and the Knowledge of Creation is knowing that process. So what cell are we in the body of the Creator? Are we a cell in the kidney, or the heart? We can say the Micro is in the Macro and vice versa, but it is really about understanding that it is all the same pattern and when we understand how it works, then we become part of the bigger life of the U.

It has always been said, that the key to life in the U is being able to create and control emotions and as humans we still don't believe we have that capability. What I could understand about emotion in this teaching is that the STM and STP interact and create a M field strength that materializes in the brain in a specific area that causes it to make a physical reaction in the body. For example, fear will cause the body to run, and happiness to want to hug someone. But we still don't know how the emotion works or what the basis for it is. He has told us before that each being in us as the STM, STP, and P create their own emotions. When the body itself creates a reaction that is called a physical emotion. Perhaps an example of this would be like if our body has to interact with severe weather conditions out in the wilderness, then it would develop an emotional response to being in that condition. It wouldn't come through the thought process. Then today he added that when the Soul of the Creator (STC) interacts with the STM it also creates an emotion, or what he called, the essence of the emotion of the Man. Again it is difficult to decipher what that means. Because fundamentally we are created from the fields of the Creator, which is the H Plasma. We are made out of these fields that are always in the background of our life. And this is somehow related to how thoughts are created.

The next subject is asking ourselves how thoughts are created and where do they come from? As humans we don't have any reference point as to where thoughts come from. They just appear in our mind and we speak them out. We think they come from our memory, but it is not that simple. It seems to me that there are different types of thinking. There are the thoughts that just come on their own from some unknown place, and there are thoughts that come from our personal experience and we can think and analyze them. Science will say they come from the neural activity of the brain cells and stored memory. In the early 1900's scientists like Dr. Karl Jung came up with the theory that the thoughts come from the "Collective Unconscious." And today Mr. Keshe is bringing the understanding that thoughts are M fields that come from the interaction of the STM with the STP, but that in the background the STM is linked and fed by the STC. Perhaps this is what was referred to as the Collective Unconscious. But we need a lot more knowledge to sort all of this out. In a way, is the Creator thinking through us? Is He the ultimate Witness sitting in the background watching out our eyes? Is He aware of our petty little thoughts going all the time? Or is He just there like the H Plasma, the Source of the Creation, and if He chooses to focus on us, then He can become aware of us?

It seems Mr. Keshe is saying that, all the information and Knowledge of Creation is stored with the STC and we access it through the STM with our emotion. But this knowledge is in the background and we don't need to be conscious of it. It's just to know that we can access when we create a need for it. Locally, in our body, to say something or to make a sentence we first have to create an emotion for it. That emotion accesses the STM and it interacts with STP to convert the emotion fields into a word or a touch to express the emotion. In a way, it's the manifestation of Energy into P. We have the 5 senses of sight, hearing, touch, taste, and smell. The Sixth Sense is really the STM but we have denied it and call it intuition. He said, there are many more senses but did not elaborate. The Sixth Sense brings all the senses together and is in the field D of the Soul and is an intermediary with the STC fields, which allows us to feel things. And the emotion between the STC and the STM is a reference point that allows us to interact with other Souls. The STC is the common denominator that links all the Souls together. We need to understand this to be able to transmute.

We discussed the memory some time ago and it occurred to me that the only time I could remember something is when I had an emotional link to what I wanted to remember. In subjects that I didn't like I found it extremely hard to memorize the material. Mr. Keshe confirmed that every memory has an emotional tie to it whether it is pain, happiness or whatever. For example, if we remember back to what our Father told us in childhood, there is an emotion tied to it and we bring that physical emotion into the present and experience it again, that's how we remember. So in a way, everything is coming through the present moment, it's like a film projector in the old movie theaters. The lower reel is the past and the upper reel the future, but it can only be played in the present.

To work with emotions we have to understand that it is nothing other than M and G field strength and it has a pattern and a structure. If we understand this then we can work with it scientifically. That is not the case right now. Since we don't understand what emotion is we subconsciously think it is something magical or mystical that happens to us somehow.

They seem to appear out of nowhere in our mind. Or we actually think we are controlling them, when they are really controlling us. But if it is a MG field strength then we can create and control it with technology (T). And that's what Mr. Keshe is doing in today's workshop with the KF Plasma Systems. He said, he has selected some people to test how the systems can create emotion in them, and then how they can control them. He is using a very powerful emotion in the D of the Soul and not P. He wants to know how the KS are receiving it and what they are feeling. This will help us to bring changes to humanity and stop the killing. The emotions work on the basis of giving and receiving and the systems can rapidly interchange between the two. We know that the stronger always gives to the weaker, so by lowering the strength in the D of C14 we absorb energy, and this causes a field contraction and the STC responds to the STM. And somehow he can transmit that to the STP and that creates a reaction in the body. Obviously, there is more to it, this is just a general description so that we can follow along with the teachings, and it is amazing. This is somehow related to the dream state where we actually feel the emotions and act on them, but when we wake up, nothing has happened. To the P it is like a simulation. But is it really? Maybe it is a real experience in the D of the Soul. It's all a matter of perspective and what we take to be real. Working with our dreams and trying to understand what is real can help us prepare for transmutation. In transmutation what we call reality shifts constantly, so we have to be grounded in the Soul and have control over our emotions to remain psychologically stable. And we have to understand how to create emotions both in the D of the P and the Soul and be able to interact them with each other by finding the common denominator, which is the M field of the Creator. This M field is denied by science.

In a clear way he said, the Sixth Sense is really the STM and it brings all the senses together, and is the creator of our emotion and connects us to the STC. When we understand this then we'll be able to transmute anywhere in the U. The emotions of the STM and STP interchange and transfer the P back into energy and at the destination the process is reversed, but when we bring the STP out again and interact it with the fields of the environment it will create a different P one that is appropriate to that Place. This has happened with KS but they didn't understand it and thought it was a dream. How this happens can be understood by experimenting with the Gans's. When we change the salt concentration we get different version of CO₂, or we can say CO₂ with different properties. It's because through the salt we have changed the G Inertia conditions in the water. And when we land on another planet the Gans we'll create as our body in that new environment will match the local conditions and not what we had on Earth. The P calls this a dream because it is not free to move easily through dimensions. In the physical D we need to supply our P with food and fuel to move the body in a vehicle. Whereas, in the D of the Soul we easily create what we need through the field interactions.

The key to transmutation is detachment from the physical body and the physical dimension of this planet, when we match the emotion of the Soul with the emotion of the P, then we can transmute. This kind of detachment is where we give up the selfish intention of thinking we can enjoy a separate life for ourselves, and instead use our life in the physicality to help the others find true happiness and serve humanity to make it a peaceful place for all Beings to live. This is the same intention the Creator has and we'll match our fields with His and at the same time gain access to the U. It means the Creator gave to His creations the same emotion as Himself. There are as many paths to the Creator as there are stars in the sky. We don't criticize others, but we try to find the way to our Creator and how to create the physical emotion to interact with the emotion of the STC.

This may come as a surprise, but those who taught humanity the path of suffering as the way to God are the biggest abusers of Mankind. There are those who say that the power of love comes from suffering and that the more you suffer the more you appreciate love. This kind of thinking has actually pushed Mankind further from the Creator. I think Mr. Keshe meant to say, that in the beginning the Creator didn't suffer, instead He created the joy of living. But if the Micro is in the Macro doesn't the Creator suffer from feeling our pain and suffering? I don't understand exactly what Mr. Keshe is referring to. Is he pointing to a higher level of existence that we are trying to reach, where Man will be born first as a Soul and be enlightened from the beginning of life? And as we will know that we are connected to the Creator and are constantly being fed His love through the H, then there is no need to suffer. The suffering comes out of ignorance and not knowing our Soul, then we feel the lack of energy and kill others to steal their energy. The religions, especially the Western orthodox religions that started in the Levant all taught that we are born into original sin and are meant to suffer. They teach that God created you, but you can never be one with God. In fact, those who said they were one with God were killed as heretics. Mr. Keshe has taught us that the Prophets who founded these religions were all flawed and failed in one way or another to truly elevate humanity. And when it came to Knowledge of Creation they were illiterates as they had no knowledge about Creation. But this time we have the full Knowledge of Creation and are Teachers, and not Prophets. We are here to teach humanity, so that everyone understands, then there can be no blaming others for our own lack of understanding.

It's interesting that he says, the Creator through His emotion is always interacting with the STP of the Man in one way or another. Therefore, whatever reactions the Man has, it touches the STC too. This implies that we are closer to the Creator than we ever imagined. Maybe He is the silent witness always watching through us. When He fell in love with Mitra that was the first time He ever experienced unconditional love being returned to Him. Mitra's love is only for the Creator. But the Daughter of Mitra loves the whole of Creation unconditionally. It makes one wonder how come the Beings of the U do not love the Creator? Is it because, like humans they don't know Him? Or is it related to the strength of the M fields? Again we are dealing with different levels of consciousness and different types of love. In the first season of Star Trek in 1966 the message was that the higher Beings in the U who had powers of the mind, didn't have the same kind of love the humans had. In a way, the humans were teaching the gods. But how would they have known to write that in the script? Let's hope that humans can reach the point of helping to banish suffering from the U.

One day during the course of the teachings we will suddenly start transmuting without our knowing it. Is it because subconsciously we are growing in knowledge we never had before? Some KS are already doing this but they have a fear of confirming it to themselves. Transmutation is not about going somewhere, it's about understanding the knowledge and seeing the beauty of the Creator, through the field strength of His Creation. This is the next part of the teaching where we'll learn how the emotion of the Soul is created and how it works. Every cell in our body has all the knowledge the P has gained through its life on Earth. It knows not to touch fire otherwise it will get burned. In the same way it knows to give itself to the one it loves and by doing that it will receive back and be immersed in the love of Creation. In the same way the STM contains all the Knowledge of the Creator. It's time for humanity to understand that it is connected to the rest of Creation in ways it never thought possible.

KF has started a research center that is hidden from the public and is looking for experts in the fields of Space Technology and all the areas we listed before. The KS will live together on campus with their families in a happy and peaceful environment. It's very important that they are peaceful and emotionally satisfied so that they can produce plasma systems that will bring the same peace to the world. This could very well be the prelude to the future Space Cities that will be built on the principles of plasma where all the energy needs will be met through plasma fields and Cosmic Rays. China has publicly shown the new robots during the Chinese New Year festival that move and dance like humans. We have a video of them on the KF Brazil Youtube play list. Of course, these robots have no emotions, therefore they can be made into soldiers and kill. The process of using robots to take over humanity has started and the completion date has been moved from 2045 to possibly 2030, just 4 years away. One of the projects Mr. Keshe will work on in the new research center is to give the robots and AI the true emotion of the U, then they will not be able to kill or harm another Soul. He said, he has the knowledge to do so.

A question was asked about how love is wired within the blood and this led to a beautiful teaching on how the blood and neural system (NS) act like the rotator and coils of an electric generator to create the M fields of love. Please study this carefully because it contains a lot of knowledge about how our emotions are created. The static part of the generator are the Cu coils and that is like the NS with the Zinc (Zn), and the dynamic part is the rotating magnets and that is like the Fe in the blood. The blood flows out through the capillaries and returns through the arteries, in-between is the neural system, and in a way, it creates a Potential Difference just like a generator or battery and causes the current to flow and it creates a certain frequency. When that frequency of love matches with another person we fall in love. There can be 100,000 people in a stadium and none of them match our frequency so we don't feel anything towards them. But when we walk out on the street we see someone and suddenly the fields match and we fall 'head over heels' in love. People can pass their whole lifetime and never find a matching field strength. What he is describing here is love in the physical dimension of the M fields of the blood. What happens if your Soul fields don't match? Goethe wrote a very famous novel called the "Sorrows of Young Werther," in 1774. Werther's fields matched with Charlotte's, but she was already engaged. In the end he committed suicide, which led to a wave of suicides in Europe. Obviously, it touched a deep cord of disharmony within the society we have created. Are we willing to accept that our idea of love may be seriously flawed? If love is just a M field strength then what will happen to all the romantic ideas built around it? We have discussed this many times in past teachings and when the Soul's don't connect and maturity has not been reached then many relationships end up as compensations for one thing or another.

The mistake we make is that we don't know the difference between physical love and emotional love. Of course, we are not advising you to do anything in particular, except to understand how the M fields work. The field strength for love is generated in the blood the way we described above. But that strength will only last for 3 years maximum in the blood. If we don't renew it, then the partner will start to crave love and look for it outside the relationship. It's very simple, straight forward, and obvious. The easiest way to renew the love is to sincerely tell your partner you love them, because it synchronizes the fields between the blood and the NS and connects them together.

The other things that affects the field strength of the blood are the foods we eat and our behavior. So there is more to understand about it. If there is no blood and no neural system, then there is no love. He is not saying what types of food to eat, or how it changes the field strength. And I don't think eating a couple of meals of something is going to have an immediate effect. This is a science we don't yet know. From this we can gather that the interaction of the blood and the neural system are active creators of our emotions, and it is based on the same pattern of how everything is created in the U. It's the interaction of two fields, and they create waves and more interactions, and it goes on and on. Once we understand the essence of this then we can start to create and control our emotions.

What I understood about the interaction of the NS and blood is that our NS takes M field strength of where our place of birth is and that becomes a constant reference point. The NS remains constant and it's the blood that changes due to the influence of the environmental fields, Inertia, emotions of our family and culture, and the food we eat. The Earth's M fields are connected to the same material in our body and that's why we get so attached to our P at the Time and Place. These interactions result in the different traits of the different cultures. If the fields don't match well, then we get the problems of different nationalities not getting along with each other. One of the main causes of this is due to the different foods we eat and because they have a greater influence on the fields of the blood. An example of this is why there are problems when Turkish people go to live in Germany. Generally, they bring their food and culture with them and live separately in Germany with their own food shops. Their food creates a different emotion in the blood than the German food does. So it's not because of the DNA, rather the M fields created in the blood, and these attract different Cosmic Rays fields of the 80% of the energy we get from the environment.
