This is the first in-depth teaching we have received on the eyes and vision in this new phase of teachings. The eyes have far more importance than we ever imagined in physicality (P), where we just take for granted that we see the world. As they say, the eyes are the windows to the Soul, but in Mr. Keshe's presentation today we now understand that we communicate with the Universe (U) through them and together with the breathing they receive the Energies of the U and what we call Cosmic Rays (CR). The Soul gets fed and then feeds the P, but we also can receive energies to fulfill our other needs. When we look at the two holes in a skull, then we understand that the Soul of the Man (STM) passes out of them to travel the U, because there is no Calcium (Ca) in those areas to hold them in. In a way, the eye sockets are the doorway to the U.

In the U most creatures have 'eyes' or should we say, some form of processing vision to 'see' and interact with their surroundings. But seeing with physical eyes like the Man does, is a treasured experience to have. What does this mean? It means that instead of physical eyes, the STM feels or senses his environment. It's like when a person becomes blind, they have to use the other senses to interact with the environment, which become more heightened and they have a better opportunity to become inwardly drawn and develop what we call, the 6th sense. In Plasma Science as taught by KF we know that the 6th sense is really living at the level of the Soul, and in the present times we all have agreed to deny that part. Today's teaching is loaded with lots of knowledge about how our eyes function, how they came to be the color they are, and how that affects our emotions and behavior. Please study this workshop carefully and we'll try to uncover a few gems to better understand how we have been put together and function as a human body, and how we will be living in the U. And of course, that is dependent on us as humans, to stop killing other Beings out of ignorance and to learn to use our eyes to receive the energy and love we need to live.

Let's start by trying to figure out how come our eyes are the color they are and from the point of view of Plasma Science, how do they change color. First we should understand that the Earth is not 5,000 years old like some people believe, using the Bible as a reference. Some scientists say the Earth is more than 4 billion years old, therefore, there is plenty of time to have many cycles of the human race, like the Hindus believe. Different numbers were mentioned today, but let's just simplify it by saying that this current cycle of life started 500,000 years ago. It's my understanding of the teaching that the 'seeds' of humanity were sown in the savannas of East Central Africa, Australia, and South America, and because of the monotonous climate of high temperatures, the green of the grasslands, and the tall trees, but not dense forests, Man developed black colored eyes. And for the most part he didn't travel but remained stationary in that area for a period of time. We are just simplifying things. Then Man started traveling and crossed the Straights of Hormuz and settled for some time in the mixed landscape of the deserts and green grasslands of Iran. He had trouble seeing in this environment with black eyes. The STM out of necessity changed the eye color to brown to be able to see and live in that new environment. This is a very important step in evolution. It means the STM was able to change his P to absorb the energies he needed from the environment. Even though this sounds simple, it is far beyond what modern scientists can understand, and that's why they have muddled up all these theories about human development.

This would be considered the start of this evolutionary change of eye color in this cycle. The timeline is not clear. Did the eye color evolution start with the ending of the last Ice Age, which was about 10,000 years ago? It seems probable, because then Mr. Keshe said, the Man turned brown, I am assuming in Iran. But some of the human tribes traveled to Europe and those that settled along the Scandinavian costal areas, due to looking at the sea with its usual cloudiness developed grey eyes. And somewhere in perhaps Central Western Europe where Man started cutting the forest and making agricultural lands was the birth of the blue eyes. Scientifically they determined that there is one single common ancestor for all blue eyes of the human race. The blue color came out of the mixture of the light in the forests and the green from the open fields of farmland. It was by accident that one person decided they needed blue eyes to see properly in their environment, and this is how we got blue eyed people. Green eyes come from the densely forested areas of Germany. And hazel eyes are a mix of yellow and brown that were created by those who traveled the Silk Road between Palestine and Northern China. Those who have golden or amber eyes are those who didn't travel but remained in a stable conditions, perhaps in the Savannah areas.

This is a summary of the knowledge he parted to us for now. There is much more that needs to be understood and it will probably be added to slowly, as we digest what we have been given. I understood that the color of the eye determines the bandwidth of the energies we can absorb, and that in turn feeds the Soul. This in turn affects what our emotions, behavior, and ways of thinking will be. When we say, different races have different traits, instead of saying it is only due to genetics, now we know it is more related to adapting to the environment, which affects the fields our Soul can absorb to create its physicality. This is a lot to comprehend. But we are getting the idea, that in the new Science we are the result of M fields interactions and not physical interactions. Rather the physical part is the result of the M field interactions, and not the cause. He made it clear that the skin of the eyelids cannot block the CR or the M fields from the light of the environment. He said it in a nice way, the proteins in the physical eyelids cannot block the Plasma Technology (T) of the U.

Then there was a discussion about the importance of understanding what the colors in the U mean, as they are different than they mean on Earth. Scientists have studied the thousands shades of white, but these do not match with the colors in the U. For example, the color red for us has the meaning of danger and warning, in the U it could have a totally different meaning. We have to learn what the Universal colors mean, otherwise we might lose our life by not understanding what the other Beings are communicating to us. Obviously, this is not the physical color, but the bandwidth of M field strength, since most of the Universal Community (UC) do not have eyes. The closest we have come to Universal colors is by creating Gans's. By placing a jar of ZnO Gans next to CO₂ we see they are different, one is a bright white and the other a cream color. If these colors are of the U, then they have been converted into what the Man can see and understand. The other time we see Universal colors is when we dream, because we are actually in the Soul dimension (D), which is the D of the U. If we have one of these experiences we might remark how vivid and alive the colors in our dream was.

The UBESU Headsets are tools for us to learn about seeing Universal colors and to learn how to feel with our Soul. He said, that because animals like dogs see mono-colors they have to work with their Soul to guide them, because they can't rely on their sense of sight. There are cases when a dog suddenly stops because he senses something, and that may result in saving his owner from some mishap. It seems that Vertical People can join their Souls together when a severe storm comes, and by joining through their M field strengths together, they stick tighter to the ground. Beings in the U who have learned to coordinate their Soul with their P have become what he calls, 'unique.' When humanity reaches that level of understanding we will also become unique, but first we have to realize our Soul.

In the past, scientists used to say we only use 10% of our brain, that was because they couldn't measure brain activity. Now they have discovered through brain scans that it is active all the time. But they call it metabolic activity, because they deny the consciousness, and don't want to understand the Knowledge of Creation. According to Mr. Keshe the brain never sleeps and is constantly working, and that 80 % of its work is not on this planet or in the physical D, but is at the level of the Energy. The STM stores natural information and energies in the brain for its operation and connection to the physical D. It also uses the brain as a transformer where it 'steps down' higher energies into P and they are converted to messages that the P can feel and understand. The way I understand it is, when we recognize the Soul as the controller of our life then we'll comprehend things differently. This is because the STM can interact with the pure energy that is diluted in the fields of the U, and decisions will be made from that place of, perhaps, connection. This is the place where he started talking about what it is like when we experience elevation of the Soul, and he used his own personal experience as an example. One way to think about it is like when a snake sheds its skin, and gets a new one.

The following is only my understanding and it could be totally wrong. For those who are going through spiritual evolution through the teachings of Mr. Keshe in the Plasma Science you will want to study this carefully. As we start to gather more energy, like through the teachings, we gradually understand more. It is not like in matter state where you just accumulate more of other peoples information, like reading books, etc. In what Mr. Keshe is teaching us, we actually gain deep understanding of how Creation works, and that knowledge is like Energy. And when the Soul goes through processes of elevation, it's a real physical transmutation of the body, it's not just a thought or concept. We are used talking and thinking about Energy, Knowledge, Light, Cosmic Rays, the Love of the Creator, etc. as different things, but really they are all from the same Source, or Energy. They are like aspects or functions of the same Essence. In a way, for the Creator to play with Himself he has to pretend He doesn't know anything. It's like starting at Zero with nothing and gradually accumulating more energy. When we talk about elevating the Soul, we mean that we are gathering more field strength, and this increases our knowledge, understanding, and how we experience life changes. So elevation is a real experience and we feel it physically in our body as our energy increases. Therefore, he said, 'we go through a physical transmutation in elevation of the Soul.' The Soul receives more Energy and the P has to follow. Our body gets upgraded to handle the higher strength fields. Knowledge Seekers will experience this, but they might not understand what it is, and we don't want to create images in the mind about it, that unconsciously create preconceived ideas. Mr. Keshe has given us a detailed description of what he went through and that's why we are discussing this.

He said, he physically went through this process of gaining more energy 2 or 3 times in his life, and each time the Soul elevated more. We'll summarize it in a way we can understand. He woke up one morning and right away he noticed that his hands were not his, and yet he knew or remembered that this is the feeling of having hands. They were his hands but he didn't recognize them, because the feeling had changed. The same was for his whole body, he knew it was his, and yet it wasn't. It wasn't the same feeling, something had changed. It took a few days to get used to the new body. The first time it happened it made him a little crazy, but then he understood it was the process of elevating the Soul.

The important thing in this experience is the detachment from P. This is hard for normal people to understand, because being attached to the physicality and its D gives us a sense of security and emotional stability. This is probably the main reason why people in society don't advance spiritually, because we are so identified with the false sense of security of being a body, that it takes a miracle to change. People read about detachment in the Buddhist writings, but they don't really want to know what it means, and that this is where it leads to. If our Soul has a mission it will forcefully take us through this experience, and if we don't have a spiritual background it will become frightening, because we lose that attachment and sense of security of belonging to the others, and we'll feel alone and scared. If this happens as a child and we tell our parents they will get scared and take us to a doctor, and it will get worse. For survival, we will try to bury that feeling and get away from it. But if our Soul has a mission, it will come back again later in our life, and we'll find ourselves exploring different spiritualities looking for answers. Mr. Keshe did not have this problem because inside he knew what it was about. For him it was easy to get used to the new 'skin,' and he saw that he was gaining more and more knowledge. The third time it happens the whole knowledge of the U becomes open to you.

Then there was this phrase, 'servitude is the salt of the basis of that point to reach to it ... detachment.' It's a kind of coded message for those who are pursuing spirituality, or wanting to find the Truth of Life. If serving others is not the basis of your life's journey, then I don't think the 'third time' will be open to you. In all my studies of Saints and Sages, or if you want to say, Masters, only those with the true attitude of serving the Creator and the created, succeeded and their life became a blessing for all. And those who started going down that path, and started gaining certain powers, but there was a slight defect, or a bit of egoism in their attitude, they may have written many books and became rich and famous, but whatever they built up became flawed. Servitude and detachment are the pillars of living a life in the Soul.

There is another interesting aspect to this part of the spiritual journey and that is whether or not one has to experience Kundalini before they can awaken. Especially in India there is the tradition of what they call, 'raising the Kundalini.' In my studies and with the people I met there was always this experience of the energy flowing up the spine in one way or another, resulting in some kind of awakening. So I used to wonder if that was an absolute necessity and prerequisite for one to get enlightened. Later, I came to understand that it was not the physical experience of the energy of Kundalini that was important, but as Mr. Keshe said in this teaching, the essence of the awakening of the Soul is detachment from P, and the servitude of the Creation and Creator. The energy flowing up the spine happens in the D of P as an experience and is a phenomena within this dimension. People can interpret it how they want.

As Knowledge Seekers we should be aware that as we gain more and more field strength, the doors of the Soul want to open and that energy will affect the physicality in a positive way, but we should prepare ourselves to have the knowledge and right attitude to go through the process in a harmonious way. Part of this understanding is that our eyes are not just for seeing the world. In a way, they are a technology that was developed to help us live in both dimensions of the Soul and P. Through the eyes and the whole apparatus of seeing, and through colors, we absorb energy from the U through CR. But there is something more to this process, and that is, it becomes part of the Soul's abilities. Because he said, that if we did not learn how to use the eyes to 'see' the dimension of the Creation, then we will leave it all behind at death. This ability has nothing to do with being blind, suffering loss of vision in old age, or cataracts. The eyes then, are not just a part of the physical body, they are an intermediary between the P and Energy, because even their position in the front of the head is important. They see into both dimensions, and he implies that somehow the Soul can keep the eyes in some form or another with it. And we keep the essence of this kind of vision in our dreams when we travel with the Soul. Hopefully, he will discuss this further in the future. But we should get in the habit of when we talk about our dreams, that we consider them as actually being and living in our Soul's dimension, and not some fantasy of the P. Otherwise, we'll throw away the elevation that our Soul is bringing to us. And when we dream about our grandmother or our life in P it means we are still attached to the planet, and when we dream about the U we are part of the UC. There is something so special about a Soul being able to develop physical vision, that many races in the U would give their life to have it.

This week we got to see another amazing video of the work at the new Space City and their agricultural production. The highlight was of a drone that automatically refills itself with water, which is then turned into Gans in the tank, and the drone flies to water the fields and the roofless greenhouses and returns to the platform. KF is working on growing TCM herbs together with crops. It was explained before how it works. The purpose of KF work in agriculture is not to make profit in mass producing food, rather we are purifying seeds for use in the ONN Units that will feed humanity, and to do research in Plasma Agriculture. The KS are expected to come forward and create start spin-off companies to market the developments around the world. Then he talked about the upcoming KF Presentation in Switzerland in October. And some of the new products include the Beads for Sugar or Pain, and we need KS to buy and test them. There is also a Butterfly Book Holder, try to feel the difference when you put your book in the holder and read it. A new environment will be created. But he didn't say whether or not it would give you access to a different knowledge. It's important the KS give feedback on what they experience. The wonderful news is that the first 4 ONN Units have been shipped to KS, and another 28 will go out in July. When you receive the Units, keep it quiet and don't tell anybody, not even other KS. There is nothing to be afraid of, but we know how certain groups want to interfere in KF work. These first Units are very important because they are setting the foundation for the others to be built on. As soon as you plug them into the Internet, they will automatically appear on the KF network and all the 'bugs' have to be worked out. One of the KS who attended the Addiction session some weeks ago reported that he forgot he had an addiction, even though he is in different treatment programs. It sounds like many of the KS didn't show up for that Flight Session which is a bit of a disappointment. The work of KF is dependent on KS enjoying to help humanity, and we need to have human participation to get out from our slavery. Hopefully, the KS will come forward again in the next Flight Sessions. These will be limited to around 30 people, but we need people who will give feedback. This is vitally important to setup the ONN properly. The Cash Coin (CC) and Keshe Coin (KC) are two different Coins. The CC is an internal Coin for playing the Enlightenment Game, and the KC is for the international work of the KF to bring the T forward.

KF is working on a T that can produce Gans directly from the Cosmic Rays and that will make them totally pure. The way we produce Gans's now always leaves some traces from the production process. This will include making metals, Rare Earth materials, etc. from the fields. There will be no more destruction of the environment. First we have to get the KC and the ONN system working so that we do not damage the economies of Africa and other developing countries that are dependent on mining. KF has a 40 year plan for developing the Plasma T and delivering it to humanity. We are on course and it will not change.

A KS asked about whether taking honey from the hive, or milking a cow is stealing. And then there was some justification about taking apples that have fallen on the ground. There was hesitation in Mr. Keshe's voice when he answered, I understood it to mean he wanted us KS to think about the essence of what we are doing. You can watch videos about how they steal honey from the hives, and they have to wear special protection so they don't get stung. Our Mother the Cow, is put into iron harnesses and painful suction cups are put on her teats and the milk is sucked out with force. Recently, he gave the example of how it's too expensive to harvest the oranges in Sicily, Italy so they fall to the ground and rot. There is no problem. And he said, when we live the life of the Soul we will enjoy the beauty of the orange without having to eat its fruit. Scientifically, we don't know enough about the M field strength connection of the fruit to its tree to say for sure it is not stealing. The point is we live in a culture of taking, and we make up our own rules about what belongs to whom. And once humans start justifying things, then there is no limit to the crimes we commit, because we have been kept, and are keeping ourselves from the knowledge of life.

If you are a cat lover then you will want to pay attention to this teaching on cats. Thousands of years ago the Sumerians wrote on clay tablets that cats were brought to Earth. Mr. Keshe said, he read a lot of these historical writings about cats and some are so deep they are kept from the public. It seems our rulers have certain phobias about humans learning too much. His summary about cats is that they have the ability to analyze whatever is in front of them in a single picture, and from that they can understand the emotion and feeling of the time and place they are in. The implication is that they are doing this through the Soul and not the brain. It's like they have access to the emotions, thoughts, and they know what move the animal or whatever is in front of them, is going to make. We may have noticed that cats suddenly freeze before they are about to do something, in that split second they are processing all the information they need for that situation. They are not born with this ability because kittens don't have it. They learn it from their mother. Our Soul does this through our vision, and we assess the fields of the Aura of someone and it unconsciously gives us the information of how to behave. He gave some examples of how he does this in meetings with people and he is 95% correct.

In the life of the P as it is now, we fight to show who is better than the other. In the D of the Soul it is the opposite. If our Soul has a higher field strength than someone else, it will offer to share half of it so both Souls can be equal. This might sound like a fairytale, but he found evidence that some animals in Africa still live like this. They share with the others, and the Chinese herbs do this too. Unfortunately, the animals in the modern world who have a lot of contact and influence from humans have become like humans. In the human world of relationships it's a battle of the emotions and concepts, and those who are weak end up at the bottom. People have become scared to show their love or even to think about what might be. Because when we are let down or deceived it is too painful to get up again. Part of the process of maturing is to be able to discriminate between those who are worthy of our love, and those who will abuse it. Unfortunately that knowledge costs a heavy price on the heart to learn. If we have proper guidance we are supposed to learn that in our teenage years, then that would prepare us for a healthy relationship from which to start a family. When the change comes, all of this will have to be reorganized so that we start out life with the right knowledge and example from our teachers.

After all these years of wondering how the pyramids were built, we finally got the answer. It was done through MG field positioning and KF will demonstrate that T in the future. He said, with a spoon we can lift tons of stones to wherever we want. KF will also show a UFO, most probably it will fly from the roof of the Space City. And then he will give the Chinese Space Program the ability to walk in their Space Lab orbiting Earth without floating. They need only to put a Soul in their craft and come to balance with it, and they will walk like on Earth. We do this with the Soul of the Earth but we are not aware of it.

Thanks for listening.
