

We Have to Learn to Communicate Through Soul - 6th Sense - Practice Talking Through the Soul - Plasma Vacuum - Subconscious is STM - Why Saints Body Don't Decay Introduction to 661 KSW

Note: Not checked by KF interpretation by KS of KF Brazil

The main point in today's workshop is that, now that we have learned how to transmute, achieved Space flight, and have developed the different aspects of the technology (T), like food, medicine, energy, etc., how are we going to communicate with the Universal Community (UC) when we encounter them on another planet? Mr. Keshe started out by explaining how the physical senses are used for communication on this planet but are limited to different bandwidth spectrums of frequencies. For example, the sight uses a specific spectrum of M fields and hearing another, and so forth, but these are only useful here in the matter state of planet Earth. When we go outside the planet, or switch to the Energy dimension (D) while on this planet, these senses are of no use. And if we think about it humans have not achieved very much because we haven't learned how to understand the language of other animals and creatures on this planet, including the trees and whatever else might live here. We have become so narrow-minded, we have decided that since we can't understand anybody else, and we don't see or hear others, therefore, we must be the only ones occupying the whole Universe (U). The point is we have handicapped ourselves by relying only on the physical senses and now that we want to meet the "Others" we have to try and discover new ways to communicate. It should be understood that the purpose of life is not to work as slaves to the hidden Ruling Elite, but to first get enlightened to the beauty and Energy of our own Soul, and then to enjoy relating to others and sharing our experiences and emotions with them. To be alive is to share, and to share means we have to be able to communicate. This workshop is about opening this very essential chapter in Space development, and that is, how to communicate with our Soul of the Man (STM) to other Souls, because those who live in Space do not have a mouth, eyes or ears, they talk through the energy of their Soul, and we will learn that too, to be able to join the family we never knew about.

The language of the U, is the language of the Soul, and we actually already know it, because we use it every night when we dream, but we are just not aware of it. We have created a filter in part of the brain where we convert the emotion and sounds of the Soul into the physicality (P). Maybe this is the part that we remember from the dream. He didn't go into any details about this, but to interact with the UC we have to learn how to translate the spectrum of the frequencies of emotions that the different races of the UC communicate in. He made it clear many times that it is not physical language, but different field strengths of plasma energy that is used instead of talking. We don't want to repeat what has happened on this planet throughout history. When people don't understand each other, then their fears take over and they project the wrong meaning to the other side, which can lead to anger and eventually war. The main thing we need to learn is how to express love and care for the Aliens we'll meet. Then if we feel hungry, suddenly we'll be fed with energy, spontaneously out of love. One kind of love in the U he talked about was when you for instance, give someone a M field of 1 Tesla, and you receive 3 Tesla back. It may sound mechanical to us, but it is really an example of unconditional giving. In their way of life, when you perceive a need, you try to fulfill it and don't have to wait to be asked for something. The other Soul knows what is needed and gives without expecting anything back. Another example, is when we meet Aliens that might have twisted legs and two heads, which may look ugly to us, but if we understand that's what is needed by that race to survive, we can love even them. If we can learn to love beings who are different from us, then we'll become part of the Society in Creation that can communicate with everyone, regardless of the circumstances. We can practice this on Earth when we meet handicapped or people with deformities and try not to judge them as inferior.

What I found helps, is not to deny the subconscious program in the background that says, 'oh, this person is different.' It can even be a kind of feeling of, having disgust. Let it come forward, but then quickly judge it as a thought you do not want, and it will pass out of the heart as an energy, and you'll see the beauty of the Soul in front of you, regardless of their physical appearance, or whatever. If you are sincere and honest, the other Soul will feel it and it may open the door to a beautiful relationship. This is part of learning to communicate with the Soul. It's not imagination, there is a real feeling of energy and emotion. It's interesting that we use that word, 'alien' to describe people who are different from us. The good habits we develop on Earth will be used when we travel outer space.

When we have a feeling inside that we should not get on the bus, and we follow it, and later we were glad we did because the bus had an accident, that sense is what we call, the Sixth Sense. The first five senses are physical and the sixth one is non-substantiated and some call it intuition. Now we know the sixth sense is in the dimension of the Soul, and it is protecting our P. But it can work for positive experiences as well, like it can set it up for us to meet people whose company we enjoy, or we need to learn something from. We can have that same feeling with objects. For example, there may be a problem with a knife, and if we pick it up, we might cut ourselves. Mr. Keshe is saying that objects have a Soul and because they care about us, they warn our Soul not to do something where they could get hurt. But can an object really have a Soul? Let's consider our own body with trillions of cells in it, and each one is conscious, has its own Soul, and feels emotion. Collectively we call it, the Soul of Physicality (STP) of the Man. One of the Prophets said, even a stone has a Soul. A stone is made up of molecules, which are like cells. Are the molecules conscious and have a Soul? I believe in past teachings he said, atoms have Souls, so then why won't molecules? Collectively the atoms and molecules make up a STP for the object, and that Soul can communicate with our Soul. And if needed our Soul can make our P respond. This is a knowledge to broaden our understanding before we enter Space, where we will be confronted with totally new circumstances.

Learning to communicate through the Soul is something we have to practice. As they say, practice makes perfect. He asked us to try saying, 'I love you' to the one we love, through the Energy and not through words. It doesn't have to be a partner, it can be a pet, friend, family, or whatever. We talked about love many times and how there are different types of love. The most common type of love is saying, 'I love you' to someone dear to us and waiting for them to say, I love you, back, and there is usually a sweet feeling with it. Then try to do the same thing with your thoughts and see what power it has. Does it have any power? Will the physicality of your lover even respond, or is it like nothing was said? We each have to find our own way inwards, nobody can do it for us. Sincerely practicing is the best way. He assures us, when we find the true M field strength of love, the P of the one we love will respond. If one thing doesn't work, try another way, and keep trying until you find the right fields strength and start understanding. Detachment is going to be very important. One thing you should try not to do, is to seek the other ones confirmation in P, that will set you up for failure. If you really want to learn to communicate through your Soul, then keep the P out of it until you succeed and can control it. Then you will know the difference.

There was a nice teaching about the plasma vacuum, but first we should know what physics calls a vacuum. They say a space devoid of matter is a vacuum and the pressure in the vacuum is below the outside atmospheric pressure. As we can't reach a perfect vacuum, what we create are partial vacuums, because of quantum fluctuations. Sound waves cannot travel through a vacuum because they need a medium, but electromagnetic waves like light can, so sunlight and thermal radiation freely travel through a vacuum. The 'quantum vacuum is not a simple empty space, it contains fleeting electromagnetic waves and particles that pop into and out of the quantum field.' They are coming close to the point where energy becomes matter, and this is where the discussion and thought processes in matter state hit a wall.

Mr. Keshe says, that you cannot make a plasma vacuum using matter state magnets. It's impossible. The way I understand it is, we are not talking about a space without atoms or particles, we are going deeper into the essence of the atom, which are the protons and electrons, and understanding them to be plasmas themselves. Then we go into their G and M fields and by ripping open a space between them we create a space gap that is void of anything, and that is a plasma vacuum. Somehow you expand this space gap and then you can do anything you like in that plasma vacuum or empty space. He seemed to be saying there is another way to do it. You take two energies that are next to each other, and remember that a M field repels another M field. In rejecting each other they create a space gap, which becomes a vacuum. He has developed a technique to do it, but it is very difficult to maintain it. In summary, a plasma vacuum works at the deeper field level and not at the atom or particle level. Therefore, when we work with plasma we have to understand how it interacts and behaves, and know that it is the source of the matter state. And if we follow its rules and not mix it up with matter state limitations our experiments like with MaGravs will work out.

As KS if you have been working with the breathing methods and wondering why you don't reach fulfillment, it's because there is more to it. He has more to teach us about it, but we are not ready yet. In the past, when KS got hold of certain knowledge we tended to create more problems through our lack of understanding and thinking if we only knew the right thing to do, then our problems would be solved. Therefore, at the moment, we should keep pondering and trying to understand, and then we can add, 'trying to understand the emotions we have during the breathing.' It's more than just a breathing technique, and as Mr. Keshe always says, there are no 'shortcuts.' In the end, we still have to do our inner work to mature our Soul and realize its presence within us.

It was again discussed how the diversity of the field interactions has created a very unique creature in the U, namely the Human Being. Most of the creatures in the U do not have these complex interactions that come from a slight tilt in the axis of the planet of about 15 degrees. One of the results of this according to Mr. Keshe, is that it leads to problems in the neural and M field systems in the body, in that M fields are very dynamic. And because of this every cell in the body is constantly changing and evolving. However, this is not obvious to matter state scientists because the changes are subtle and on the M field level which they do not know about. As the cells are conscious, the M field energy transfers affect our emotions which in turn affect the cells. This has created an emotional sensitivity in the body of the Man, and why we can easily give ourselves cancer and other diseases through emotional upsets we go through in our life. If our partner betrays us, we can kill ourselves through cancer of the breasts or prostate. He said, our emotions have such a power that they can create a huge umbrella that covers every cell in the body. The example he gave was, if someone loves their father so much and they want to do what he does. If he dies of leukemia, then they create that same situation within themselves, and also die of leukemia. The doctors would then say it is genetic, because they don't understand the creative power of emotions. Creation has created something very unique in the human due to the diversity of its environment, and then it creates a diversity of emotions to fit with that environment. The U is learning from what is happening on Earth and this will help them to create new dimensions of life in other parts of the U. Man and the creatures on this planet are the most fascinating creatures to observe, because unlike the rest of the U, they are changing all the time and expanding the diversity. In the immensity of His Creation, this show is so interesting, that it has even caught the attention of God.

Why didn't Mr. Keshe elaborate more on Dr. Carl Jung's work on analytical psychology? It's been over 110 years since these ideas became prominent in the human mind. At that time it was very strange to want to go inside the mind and find out how it works. In a way, it was taboo. Then if you went inside and found something like another being in there with its own thoughts and ideas, how would you convey those things to a society that rejects the Soul? They came up with the concept of the 'subconscious' and now it has become 'fact.' Mr. Keshe's answer was, 'most of it goes towards the STM. And there is not much you can do with this. It is the nature of the work.' What does that mean, 'not much you can do with it'? Is it, that these ideas have become like a new religion, and people just repeat the ideas? There really hasn't been anybody that has expanded Jung's work. However, with the knowledge Mr. Keshe is bringing we can take it to a whole new dimension, and one that is in tune with Reality.

The 'Autobiography of a Yogi' by Yogananda was the first book that led me into the World of Eastern spirituality. His life was one of pure devotion to God, Guru, and helping people to better understand themselves and what life is about. It's no wonder that his body didn't decay for the first 30 days after death. There were different explanations, but no one really knew why or what that phenomenon is, until today. Mr. Keshe has explained it in a very scientific way, according to Plasma Science. When a person like some of these gurus, really lives in the state of Energy, when they die, they continue to live in that Energy until it gets used up or returns back to the environment. The Energy cocoons them during life and continues on after death for however long. I have seen these bodies and they are not perfectly kept like when they were living. But a normal body decays very rapidly and the cells start to liquefy almost immediately. So to have a body that is still intact centuries later without any chemicals is quite miraculous, and they gave it the name, incorruptibility. This led into a discussion about the cells becoming independent from the brain. If the Yogi or the person were able to connect to the Cosmic Rays while living, then the cells themselves could learn to directly connect to the CR and be fed and continue to live on independent of the body.

Mr. Keshe connected this phenomenon to how sometimes when they connect new motors to spin plasma reactors with Gans's the electric motor stops as if they were burnt out. But after 6 months if they connected them again to the system they would work. He said, it's an example of plasma saturation and when the plasma fields get dissipated the motors start working again. Somehow the plasma locks up the matter state. How is that connected with the body not decaying? Maybe it was to show that when the plasma fields dissipate then matter goes back to its normal functioning. In the case of saints, the cells in their body continue on their journey of decaying and transforming into something else.

Thanks for listening.
